INTRODUCTION

These reports are intended for a general, nonspecialist audience. They run the gamut of the arts and sciences, historical and current events, and should provide the reader with useful introductions to given topics. May they encourage a few happy hours of suggestive thought!

OVERTHROW

In Paris, France in the year 1830, on a canvas measuring 260 centimeters by 325 centimeters, the leader of the Romantic school of French painting created a masterpiece which would galvanize millions of people throughout the world and light up the path of freedom fighters in the centuries which followed. Presently blazing forth in the Louvre Museum, it is a painting by Eugene Delacroix commemorating the revolution of 1830 which overthrew King Charles X. Liberty Leading The People shows a woman of the people, a woman personifying reason and liberty, leading the people forward, leading them over a barricade and over the bodies of the fallen, in one hand holding aloft the tricolor flag of the revolution, and in the other hand brandishing a bayonetted musket. Liberty Leading The People, whose figure of reason and liberty was the outstanding symbol of France, the French Republic and the Age of Enlightenment. Liberty Leading The People, a shining testament in brushed oil colors to man's undying struggle to free himself from the yoke of unlawful and unconstitutional governments which cannot be removed except by force of arms. Liberty Leading The People, hanging in the hallowed gallery of the National Art Museum in Paris, its rays have penetrated what was once the freest nation on Earth and inspired a vanishing community of civilized Americans, dedicated to defending the constitution, to bring to a halt the processes of a government which has run rampant in its violation of human rights, and in running rampant, has enacted, in the United States of America, the greatest political tragedy ever witnessed: the fall of the world's arsenal of freedom into a savage forest unfurling a banana republic. This forest was planted by the same mob which planted the savage forest in ancient Rome and engulfed a pagan, constitutional, reason based Roman Republic in a spreading black cancer marked Julius Caesar, statism, redistribution, the welfare dole state, bread and circuses, Germanic hordes and the Christian church. So went Rome, and so America now has gone. Civilized people know the supreme law governing the life of man in society, and they see the present day facts of America justify the application of this law. The law: if a government which violates the rights of the people cannot be changed by means of legal action, there is a duty and necessity incumbent upon civilized people to change the government by means of illegal action and to overthrow the government. The present day facts of America which necessitate the overthrow of the government have tolled out the moral, spiritual and political death knell of the nation. Overthrow. In 2020, something happened which naive, untutored people thought was impossible, unthinkable, unimaginable, preposterous and could never happen. It happened because it had to happen whenever communist mobs take over a nation and send it on a trajectory of free fall. Take it over they did, beginning in the early years of the twentieth century, when they planted communism in America under the guise of progressivism and "a New Deal for the American people". Take it over they did and felled the mightiest tree in mankind's garden of liberty. Then it took eighty years for the inevitable to happen, and the inevitable happened, and the cancer of communism consumed the constitution and took away the right of the people to vote in free, fair and lawfully conducted elections. In 2020, the American political establishment committed the highest crime possible; it committed an act which defined the term high treason; it stole the presidential election and installed Joe Biden as president of the United States. It stole the presidential election with ten thousand voter application forms submitted without signatures, without addresses, without telephone numbers, and written by one person, a Democrat Party operative. It stole the presidential election with unregistered voters and fraudulent absentee ballots. It stole the presidential election with pistols, rifles, silencers, gun sights and crosshairs pointed at the people. It stole the presidential election with mobile phones and telephone payment cards. It stole the presidential election with 800,000 ballots cast by nonqualified voters, by noncitizens, by out of state voters, by deceased voters and by underage people: "GBI Strategies LLC, the Democrat related entity included in 2020 police report in Michigan related to election fraud, was dissolved in Tennessee in 2017. GBI Strategies and its apparent head, Gary Bell, is listed in the police report from 2020 recently uncovered by the Gateway Pundit. On October 8, 2020 a person dropped off between 8,000-10,000 completed voter registration applications in Muskegon, Michigan. City Clerk Ann Meisch obviously noticed. Per a review of the voter applications, it was uncovered that: 1. numerous forms appeared to have been completed by the same writer. 2. addresses on multiple forms were invalid or nonexistent. 3. phone numbers were erroneous. 3. signatures didn't match. On October 16 the Muskegon Police Department was contacted and asked to investigate. On October 20 the same person brought in another 2,500 forms. Michigan Attorney General Dana Nessel's Office got involved on October 21. Two members of AG Dana Nessel's Criminal Investigation Division were assigned to the operation, yet curiously, she failed to mention the investigation to the public at any time since. Michigan State Police got involved and an investigator assigned to the case spoke with the female suspect who explained that she was being paid $1150/week 'to find unregistered voters and provide them with a form so they can get registered to vote or obtain their absentee ballot.' The police found at one location (Southfield) in Michigan: 1. partially completed voter registration forms. 2. 'pelican cases in the room with semiautomatic rifles joined with suppressors and optics and customized pistols.' 3. A case with '4 rifles and 4 pistols.' 4. 'Dozens of new phones' and 'Hundreds of prepaid payment cards.' Michigan State Senator Ruth Johnson, who is a former Secretary of State, told the Gateway Pundit: 'My estimate is over 800,000 ballot applications were sent to nonqualified voters in Michigan, including many individuals who moved or died, and even some individuals who were underage or noncitizens. Many were sent to people who had moved out of state.' " (Multi Million Dollar GBI Strategies LLC–The Target In The Unearthed 2020 Michigan Police Report Involving Election Crimes–Was Dissolved In Tennessee In 2017 by Jim Hoft). Confronted with incontrovertible evidence of electoral fraud and unconstitutional actions by state officials, courts throughout the nation, joined by the highest court in the land, proclaimed no standing to sue, no peaceful means for redress of grievances, case dismissed. Confronted with incontrovertible evidence of electoral fraud and unconstitutional actions by state officials, Vice President Mike Pence issued a statement to a joint session of Congress on January 6, 2021, seconds before he began presiding over the counting of electoral votes. He proclaimed that it was his sworn, solemn duty under the constitution, his oath to support and defend the constitution, to violate the constitutional right to vote in free, fair and lawfully conducted elections, and to count fraudulent electoral votes cast for Joe Biden, and to certify Joe Biden as president of the United States, so help him God. Overthrow. Loaded with four indictments, ninety one felony charges, multiple civil suits, hundreds of millions of dollars in damages and one thousand years of prison time, a missile has been launched by the American political establishment at the life and career of the nation's preeminent voice of resistance to communism. It has been launched by an establishment which is determined to bring to a halt Donald Trump's quest to be reelected and to reverse the radical gender, race and class agenda enacted by the establishment under Joe Biden. It has been launched at the forty fifth president of the United States who is determined to make his battle against Marxism and its variants America's final battle and America's finest hour. Hurtling across the skies of infamy, this missile has exploded and the fallout has poisoned the land for all time to come. The establishment's accusations against Trump are as fraudulent as the 2020 presidential election which the establishment stole from him. In the fire, smoke, rubble and radioactivity raining down upon the nation, there are the following. There is an indictment that Trump retained 11,000 government documents, some top secret and sensitive, without government permission. Fact: Trump possessed plenary, chief executive, commander in chief power, under Article Two of the constitution, to dispose of executive branch documents as he saw fit. There is an indictment that Trump falsified business records in connection with payments to a film star during the 2016 presidential campaign. Facts. The accusation involves offenses which are outside the jurisdiction of New York City and belong in federal court. In 2021, the Federal Election Commission dropped the case against Trump.

There are indictments that Trump made knowingly false claims of election fraud and sought illegally to overturn the results of the 2020 election. Facts. All of Trump's statements and actions since the Election Day indicated that he believed the truth that the election had been stolen. All legal processes to change the results of the election having been blocked by the establishment, Trump was left with no other option but to use any and all manner of illegal means, including the use of force to attack the Capital Building on January 6, 2021, to change the results. Trump has a First Amendment right to make any election claims he chooses and for whatever reasons he chooses. There is a civil suit which accuses Trump of knowingly inflating the worth of his real estate assets. Fact. Real estate asset inflation, puffery and hyperbole are standard practices in the real estate industry and are accepted by banks and other financial institutions. There is a civil suit which accuses Trump of sexually abusing E. Jean Carroll in a Bergdorf Goodman fitting room in New York City in the 1990s. Facts. The accusation is unsupported by an iota of eyewitness evidence or physical evidence; the accuser was unable to provide the time, the day, the month or the year the offense was allegedly committed; and the accuser lifted the accusation from an episode of the popular television series Law & Order, an episode entitled Theater and Tricks: "Former President Donald Trump is facing 91 charges in four different criminal cases following his time in office. 1. The former president received 40 felony counts related to his storage of classified documents at his Mar a Lago resort. Trump is the first former president to receive a federal indictment. Trump is accused of taking around 11,000 documents, some containing sensitive national security secrets, and hoarding them in a haphazard manner at his Palm Beach, Florida, estate. The most serious charge, in this case, carries a penalty of up to 20 years in prison. 2. Trump was indicted by a New York grand jury in March over hush money payments to porn star Stormy Daniels during the 2016 campaign. The former president is accused of falsifying business records in connection with the payments. Trump’s then-lawyer Michael Cohen paid Daniels $130,000 in exchange for her silence about a sexual encounter she claimed the two had. Trump pleaded not guilty to the charges and is trying to have the case moved to federal court. He is set to appear in court on Jan. 4, 2024. 3. Special counsel Jack Smith charged the expresident with four counts in connection with his attempts to overturn the 2020 election. Prosecutors charged that the 45th president’s incessant claims of election fraud costing him reelection 'were false and [Trump] knew they were false.' The indictment is the second brought by Smith against the 77 year old Trump. A mob of Trump supporters breached the US Capitol on Jan. 6, 2021, following his speech on the Ellipse. The charges against the former president include violation of the Georgia’s antiracketeering law, conspiracy, false statements, and asking a public official to violate their oath of office. 4. Trump and 18 of his allies and supporters were indicted by a Georgia grand jury in connection with his efforts to overturn the 2020 election results in the Peach State. The former president faces 13 counts in the case, matching a docket prematurely posted to the Fulton County Superior Court’s website around noon. 5. The former president was sued by New York Attorney General Letitia James. James is alleging that Trump and three of his children lied to banks about his assets and net worth by billions. She is seeking a $250 million fine and a ban on Trump doing business in New York state. 6. Trump was found liable for sexually abusing and defaming writer E. Jean Carroll in the 1990s. Carroll was awarded $5 million in damages from Trump. Trump was not found guilty of rape after the jury rejected Carroll’s claim that Trump raped her in a Bergdorf Goodman fitting room. Trump faces a second defamation trial by write E. Jean Carroll, who won an initial judgment of $5 million from Trump in May. She says Trump sexually assaulted her in a department store in 1996 and falsely denied it." (Trump Faces Packed Schedule Of Court Dates For Six Potential Trials Before Election Day 2024 by Steven Nelson). Overthrow. Communism is a cancer which in the twenty first century has spread across every sector of American society. It has spread to such an extent that fifty percent of the electorate is communist, ninety percent of the news and entertainment media are communist, and ninety percent of the government in all states and at all levels are communist. This communist establishment and electorate have ignored the high crimes and misdemeanors committed by Joe Biden. They have ignored the fact that Joe Biden accepted ten million dollars in bribery payments from Ukraine in exchange for access to his office when he was vice president, and as payment for his having the Prosecutor General of Ukraine, Viktor Shokin, dismissed from investigating acts of corruption at Burisma. These bribery payments have been established by seventeen audio recordings involving Joe Biden and his son Hunter, made by Burisma energy company founder Mykola Zlochevsky. Censored by the FBI and ignored by the Justice Department, these audio recordings provide stunning, dramatic, incontrovertible evidence of the greatest political corruption scandal ever to hit America: "Now, accordingly, Congress still lacks a full and complete picture with respect to what that document really says. That's why it's important that the document be made public without unnecessary redactions for the American people to see. Can you believe redacting an unclassified document? So now, let me assist for the purposes of more transparency on this subject. The 1023 [FD-1023] produced to the House committees redacted reference that the foreign national who bribed Joe and Hunter Biden has audio recordings of his conversation with them. Seventeen such recordings. The foreign national in question has possession of fifteen audio tapes of phone calls between himself and Hunter Biden and two audio recordings of conversations with then Vice President Joe Biden. The recordings were kept as a sort of insurance policy for the foreign national in case he got into a tight spot. Special Counsel Jack Smith has used a recording against former President [Donald] Trump. Well, what is US Attorney [David] Weiss doing with respect to these Joe and Hunter Biden recordings that are relevant to the high stakes bribery scheme?" (Speech by Senator Chuck Grassley, United States Senate, June 13, 2023). The bribery payments made to Joe Biden have been established by twenty speakerphone calls in which Joe Biden participated during dinners and business meetings. They have been established by bank records revealing wire transfers of $142,300 made to Joe Biden and $142,300 made to Hunter Biden. The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising of 1943. The East German Uprising of 1953. The Hungarian Uprising of 1956. The Prague Spring Uprising of 1968. The Polish Solidarity Uprising of 1982. The East Berlin Uprising of 1989, which resulted in the destruction of the Berlin Wall and the Iron Curtain. These world renowned movements of overthrow were necessitated by the intransigence of the tyrannies they targeted. The intransigence of tyranny, its refusal to allow peaceful means of redress for grievances and to allow legal processes to resist the government and the majority, and to effect reform, necessitates a violent battle in America. It necessitates a bold, uncompromising stand toward government at all levels and in all states taken by the defenders of the constitution. It necessitates a movement to forcibly remove from power the public monsters stalking the nation, oppressing the people under the guise of the law.

MUGSHOT FOR WAR

James Montgomery Flagg was an American artist and illustrator. His most famous work, known and imitated throughout the world, was a 1917 poster of Uncle Sam created for United States Army recruitment during World War I. Uncle Sam: the national personification of the American nation, the American government and American patriotic feeling. Uncle Sam: an image named for one Samuel Wilson, a simple meatpacker from Troy, New York, first referenced in an 1816 allegorical book The Adventures Of Uncle Sam, In Search After His Lost Honor by Frederick Augustus Fidfaddy. On August 24, 2023, an image was released after an arrest was made in a jail in Fulton County, Georgia. Among civilized Americans dedicated to defending the Constitution, this image has served to recruit them to a cause, to the holiest cause imaginable, to the cause of war against the regime which created it. The image has been as effective as the iconic image of Uncle Sam employed to maximum effect by James Montgomery Flagg and has served as a clarion call for a revolution necessary to remove the regime.

The image is a mugshot taken of Donald Trump, forty fifth president of the United States, after being charged on August 14, 2023 with forty one counts of conspiring to unlawfully change the outcome of the 2020 presidential election in Georgia. The State of Georgia v. Donald J. Trump: a one hundred page document charging Trump and nineteen other people with exercising their First Amendment rights to engage in political speech and seek redress of grievances in a case whose backstory comprises a bill of indictment of the nation. The Big Steal In Georgia. The 2020 presidential election was stolen in Georgia with ballot drop off boxes clothed in darkness and stuffed with thousands of votes for Joe Biden. It was stolen with ballots harvested in nursing homes manufacturing thousands of votes for Joe Biden. It was stolen in election stations controlled by Democrats who excluded independent poll watchers and counted thousands of fraudulent votes for Joe Biden: "For those of us who live here in Georgia, there was a palpable feeling that something was wrong. This was the first election where we had ballot drop off boxes spread all over with nobody keeping an eye on them. There were daily reports of ballot harvesting in nursing homes. There were mysterious water leaks where the votes were being counted, poll watchers were reporting a lack of access to the count, and the counting seemed to stop and start for no apparent reason. Cynics suspected the pauses were meant to figure out how many votes Joe Bide still needed to carry Georgia." (Georgia's Trump Indictment: Partisan Political Hit Job by Philip Holoway). The 2020 presidential election was stolen in Georgia with mobile telephones manufacturing thousands of votes for Joe Biden. It was stolen with voter drop boxes which surveillance video footage and chain of custody documents reveal were stuffed with thousands of votes for Joe Biden: "True the Vote's preliminary data analysis, as presented to your office in April of 2021, provided evidence that 279 cellphones had made 'multiple trips to within 100 feet of a voter drop box' during the 2020 General Election and US Senate Runoff Election periods. Despite characterizing this data as 'curious,' GBI [Georgia Bureau of Investigation] Director Reynolds claimed such evidence could not 'rise to the level of probable cause.' Fourth, this preliminary data, first provided to the FBI in March, has been augmented by True the Vote's further data analysis, voter drop box surveillance video, chain of custody documents, and other critical, corroborating evidence." (Letter from James Bopp and Melena Siebert to Georgia Governor Brian Kemp, October 22, 2021). The 2020 presidential election was stolen in Georgia by Democrat Party operatives who turned away Trump voters by the thousands at polling stations across the state: "The Georgia secretary of state's office provided information that they say shows Floyd County was at fault handling the 2020 election ballot of Representative Marjorie Taylor Greene's (R-Ga.) exhusband Perry Greene. He says that this was not a 'one off' mistake. Last week, the congresswoman posted on her account on X, (formerly Twitter) about how her then husband, Perry Greene, went to cast a ballot at a polling station in the 2020 general election but was told that he had already voted absentee. She challenged that, saying her then husband had not requested a mail in absentee ballot for that election. She also claimed the same happened to other voters in that polling station. Greene wrote in her post that she and her then husband told the story 'and were both called liars, until we FOIA'd the documents.' She provided records to Just the News last Thursday and said in a statement, 'We have never heard from the Secretary of State's office, or from the Governor or from anyone about this.' Perry Green verified his exwife's account directly to Just the News on Friday, adding that he signed a Cancel Ballot Affidavit form, on which he wrote, 'I did not request one!!' and was able to cast an in person early vote ballot. Early vote ballots are called in person absentee ballots in Georgia. He added that there were about three other people in line with him who experienced the same issue." (Georgia Secretary Of State Admits Botched Ballot Process Involving MTG's Ex, Blames County by Natalia Mittelstadt, Just the News, August 23, 2023). No Standing. On November 19, 2020, the state of Georgia declared Joe Biden to be the winner of the presidential election and Donald Trump sought immediately to challenge the result. Evidence of fraudulent absentee ballots and fraudulent ballot counting was not heard in state court on the grounds that the plaintiffs lacked standing. On December 8, 2020, Texas Attorney General Kenneth Paxton filed a suit with the United States Supreme Court. The suit, Texas v. Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin, identified that these states had changed their election rules without the approval of the state legislatures, in violation of the Constitution: "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress Section 1). On December 11, 2020, the court dismissed the suit on grounds of lack of standing: "Texas lacks Article III standing to sue other states over how they conduct their own elections. Case dismissed." On January 6, 2021, before a joint session of Congress, Vice President Mike Pence refused to reject the fraudulent slate of electors from Georgia when counting the electoral college votes. Pence refused to do so, proclaiming that he had a solemnly sworn duty under the Constitution to count fraudulent votes, a duty he was obliged to obey, so help him God. Employed by America's courts to dismiss challenges to the 2020 presidential election without hearing the plaintiffs' evidence of fraud or illegality, the argument of lack of standing is in violation of the Constitution. Article Three of the Constitution authorizes the Supreme Court to hear actual "cases" or "controversies". A case or a controversy is established in the following instances: when there is a grievance about the government; when there is a harm to any citizen's interest in the application of the Constitution; when there is asserted a right to have the government act in accordance with the law; when citizens seek to vindicate the rule of law; when citizens seek to protect constitutional values; when citizens seek to challenge the infringement of constitutional rights; when citizens seek to get unlawful government conduct stopped. It is established in these instances because the Constitution empowers the Supreme Court to enforce and protect people's rights. The Constitution establishes universal standing by virtue of its existence as the supreme law of the land. In constitutional cases and controversies, all citizens are parties because all citizens are governed by a single law, and the violation of one citizen's rights is a violation of all citizens' rights. Dismissing challenges to the fraudulent presidential election in Georgia on unconstitutional grounds of lack of standing, America's courts made violence and illegality the only options for those who sought to defend the constitutional right to vote in free, fair and lawfully conducted elections. The attack on the United States Capital Building on January 6, 2021, staged by Donald Trump and the people in an attempt to stop the certification of a fraudulent election, was necessitated by the Supreme Court's foreclosure of peaceful means of redress of grievances. It was necessitated by the law of political change known to civilized people for thousands of years. Founded upon common sense, this is the law that a government which prevents the peaceful correction of injustice and illegality is a government which has assumed the form of a racket, a gangsterdom and a corrupt organization, and is a government which must be removed by force of arms. It is the law enshrined in America's founding document, the Declaration of Independence, signed by the delegates to the Second Continental Congress who were the nation's Founding Fathers, on July 4, 1776: "Whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. When a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security." Donald Trump On Trial. In forty one counts detailed in one hundred pages, Fulton County District Attorney Fani Willis declared war on the Constitution. She criminalized the freedom to speak, to argue, to advocate, to recommend, to petition, to right wrongs, to seek advice and counsel, to provide advice and counsel, to contest the outcome of fraudulent elections, and to act alone or in combination with others to protect the constitutional right to vote in free and fair elections, which is enshrined in the First Amendment to the Constitution: "The attack on the First Amendment and the very structure of the American legal system by the Star Chamber of Fulton County, Georgia, District Attorney Fani Willis is a profound assault on our democratic republic and the rule of law. There's no other way to characterize the politically partisan indictment of former President Donald Trump and 18 other defendants (along with 30 unindicted coconspirators) for legally questioning the legitimacy of the outcome of the 2020 election in Georgia. Willis is trying to criminalize free speech and have a chilling effect on anyone in the future who might dare to question the results of an election. Willis manufactured this egregious case with seeming unforgivable ignorance of the freedom to speak, to engage in political activity, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances that is protected by the First Amendment. By naming as alleged coconspirators the lawyers who were representing Trump and providing him with advice and counsel in the legal actions that were in the state and before legislators during public hearings and in private conversations, Willis is also attacking the fundamental way that our justice system works, in which lawyers are tasked with vigorously pursuing the interests of their clients. Under the crazy legal theories being pushed in her indictment, every lawyer in Georgia who represents a defendant and makes statements that turn out to be wrong or legal arguments that are ultimately rejected could be accused of conspiring with his or her client to commit a crime. In other words, they could be charged with a crime for doing what the professional code of conduct tells the lawyer he is supposed to do; namely, represent the interests of his client to the best of his abilities. The 98 page indictment contains 41 counts, all of which are centered around Georgia's RICO statute—the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act—and it includes 'coconspirators,' among them Trump's former chief of staff, Mark Meadows; and Trump's former lawyers, among them Rudy Giuliani. This is a statute that was designed to go after mob operations and the kinds of criminal conspiracies run by dangerous drug cartels, not candidates contesting an election outcome." (Destruction Of Rule of Law In Fani Willis' Georgia Star Chamber by Hans von Spakovsky). The mugshot of Donald Trump became world famous in an instant and spread like wildfire across the pages of social media. This mugshot gave the American establishment what it yearned for: a head trophy of the campaign of persecution it has conducted against a political antiestablishmentarian and anticommunist who galvanized half the nation in a movement against the establishment. This mugshot serves as dramatic proof of the regime of election interference, suppression of dissent, abuse of power and travesty of justice into which America has fallen. For the civilized people dedicated to defending the Constitution among whom it has circulated, this mugshot is a call to arms and a war blast, loud and clear, for a second American revolution.

TWENTY FOUR HOURS

A day is the time period of a full rotation of the Earth around the Sun. It is equal to twenty four hours, and as the hours pass, a given location sees morning, noon, afternoon, evening and night. January 6, 2021 was the start of the greatest, most eventful, most fateful and most consequential twenty four hour period in the history of America. It was brought to the nation by Donald Trump and the people who sought to defend the constitution, and it made the nation pass through a morning, noon, afternoon, evening and night during which the operations of an unlawful government were halted. During this time, Donald Trump and the people succeeded in preventing a joint session of Congress from counting fraudulent electoral votes and formalizing the victory of Joe Biden in the 2020 presidential election. As surely as the morning sun bathes the land in sharpness and clarity, the fraudulent character of the election was visible to all those who had eyes to see. Joe Biden was installed as president of the United States by a mob rule republic. He was installed by a democracy which had violated the constitutional right to vote in free, fair and lawfully conducted elections. He was installed by a government under the control of far left activists, by a government which had ceased to exist in all but name. He was installed by a mail in ballot operation which manufactured millions of votes for him. He was installed by changes in election rules made by nonlegislative means, in violation of Article II, Section Two of the constitution. He was installed by votes cast by people without identification. He was installed by ballots cast without signature verification. He was installed by fraudulent ballots harvested by the millions. He was installed by ballots unexamined, uninspected, unauthorized and illegitimate. He was installed by government election offices funded and controlled by communists. He was installed by an election process corrupted by communists which saw voter registration, ballot design, ballot translation, get out the vote campaigns and ballot counting organized and rigged to ensure the victory of Joe Biden: " 'You cannot have a republic if you can't have confidence in elections. If you don't have free and fair and trusted and transparent elections, you don't have a republic. This is an existential threat. Everybody needs to care about it and not make it a partisan issue. It needs to be something that everybody understands. Democracy depends, not just on the winner, but on the consent of the loser, and you're not going to have that if you have corrupted elections. The mail in ballot operation was about so much. It was about changing the laws governing how we vote, about flooding the elections with ballots that were going to addresses that maybe weren't tied to the actual voter, and then also decreased scrutiny aligned with those mail in ballots—[such as] not having voter ID or not having appropriate signature matches, or allowing ballot harvesting—all these other issues are brought in with this flood of mail in balloting. I think chaos was the actual goal [of the mail in ballot operation]. The Democratic operation [is] about changing laws in every state that they can, and just making it difficult to know what the law is, expanding the fear of possible litigation, and then having different standards for the scrutiny applied to ballots. The chaos was the design. That's what Democrats wanted. They wanted a mess of election laws that they could litigate better or have more opportunities for litigation. We had a private takeover of government election offices, funded to the tune of $419 million by Mark Zuckerberg, which brings in an army of left wing activists to handle everything from voter registration to ballot design, to ballot translation, to get out the vote operations, to ballot counting. All of these issues then become very important and systematically corrupt the election process." (Mollie Hemingway: 'You Cannot Have A Republic If You Don't Have Confidence In Elections' by Robert Kraychik, quoting Hemingway). The defenders of the constitution were confronted by incontrovertible evidence of electoral fraud and confronted by a government which had refused to provide redress for their grievances. They were confronted by a Supreme Court which ruled, in Texas v. Pennsylvania, that Texas had no standing under Article Three of the constitution to sue Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin for their violations of Article II, Section Two of the constitution when they made changes to election rules by nonlegislative means. The people were confronted by a Supreme Court which itself had violated Article Three of the constitution: in constitutional cases and controversies every citizen of the nation has a public interest standing to sue to enforce constitutional rights; every citizen of the nation has a right to challenge violations of constitutional rights; every citizen of the nation has a right to vindicate the rule of law and to get illegal governmental behavior stopped. On December 11, 2020, the United States Supreme Court issued a ruling which dismissed Article Three from the constitution: "Texas lacks Article Three standing to sue other states over how they conduct their elections. Case dismissed." Legal scholars and ordinary citizens alike were left aghast at the court's ruling because they knew what was as plain as daylight to know. They knew the state of Texas did in point of fact possess Article Three standing to sue other states for violations of the constitution, and every citizen of the nation possesses Article Three standing to sue other states for violations of the constitution. The people were next confronted by a statement issued by Vice President Mike Pence seconds before he began presiding over a joint session of Congress to count electoral votes on January 6, 2021. In his letter entitled Dear Colleague, Pence proclaimed that in his considered judgment, he had a solemn, sworn duty under the constitution to faithfully count fraudulent electoral votes, and to illegally certify Joe Biden as president of the United States, so help him God. All peaceful means for the redress of grievances having thus been foreclosed, Donald Trump and the people were left with no other option but to resort to the use of force, and at 12:53 PM they launched an action to stop the Electoral College count vote and overthrow the government. The attempted insurrection succeeded in disrupting the count and in delaying the fraudulent certification of Joe Biden by twenty four hours. It succeeded in halting the operations of a lawless government by twenty four hours. It succeeded far beyond the achievements of all previous efforts at resistance, all previous street protests, public petitions, election campaigns and literary efforts directed against America's communist tyranny centered in Washington, by actually shutting down the federal government, a government which had long since shredded the constitution and long since ceased to exist in all but name. It was a landmark event, a watershed moment, in the history of the nation, the first time a federal communist tyranny had been stopped dead in its tracks by the use of force and an insurrection staged against a federal abuse of power. The abuse of power had a long record; it commenced by popular demand in the early twentieth century, when communism was first peddled as progressivism and received standing ovations from coast to coast; and for twenty four hours, from January 6 to January 7, 2021, this process of communist abuse was prevented from continuing. Twenty Four Hours. For twenty four hours, Donald Trump and the people stopped a government which had enacted a monster called the Social Security Act of 1935, which introduced communism to America. This act established old age, unemployment insurance and aid to dependent children programs paid for by tax robbery. It led to the enactment of the Social Security Amendments of 1965 and the creation of the Medicare and Medicaid programs, which extended communism into health care entitlement paid for by tax robbery. Twenty Four Hours. For twenty four hours, Donald Trump and the people stopped a government which in 1964 had effected the greatest assault in property rights in the history of the nation. The Civil Rights Act of 1964 contains Title II, which prohibits privately owned businesses from discriminating against customers on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin, and Title VII, which prohibits privately owned businesses from discriminating against job applicants on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin. The act falsely claims that privately owned accommodations qualify as public accommodations, when in point of fact state owned accommodations alone qualify as public accommodations. In 1964, the United States Supreme Court ruled in Heart of Atlanta Motel v United States that the federal government has the power to force private businesses to comply with Titles II and VII under the Interstate Commerce Clause of the constitution. This clause states that "Congress shall have power to regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes". (Article II). The court ruled that the federal government has the power to force compliance because the business of the Heart of Atlanta Motel affected and had an impact upon interstate commerce. Legal scholars and ordinary citizens alike were left aghast at the court's ruling because they knew what is as plain as daylight to know. They knew that a business which simply affects or has an impact upon interstate commerce is different from a business, such as trucking, air travel or train travel which crosses state lines, which actually is itself a form of interstate commerce. The federal government's assault against property rights continued in 2020, when the Supreme Court ruled in three cases, Bostock v. Clayton County, Altitude Express, Inc. v. Zarda and RG & GR Harris Funeral Homes Inc v. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, that Title VII of the Civil Rights Act prohibits private employers from discriminating on the basis of sexual orientation and self proclaimed gender identity. Twenty Four Hours. For twenty four hours, Donald Trump and the people stopped a government which in 2010 expanded America's Social Security communist regime, effected the greatest assault on personal liberty in the history of the nation, and proclaimed that health care is a universal entitlement. The Affordable Care Act did the following: assaulting personal liberty, it forced individuals to buy health insurance or pay a fine; it expanded Medicaid eligibility; it forced private insurers to cover a list of "essential health benefits"; it forced private insurers to accept all applicants regardless of preexisting health conditions or demographic status; and it increased taxes on the top one percent of the workforce to fund health care for people in the bottom forty percent of the population. In 2012, the United States Supreme Court ruled in National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius that the mandate that individuals buy health insurance is a constitutional exercise of Congress's taxing power under Article I of the constitution. Legal scholars and ordinary citizens alike were left aghast at the court's ruling because they knew what is as plain as daylight to know. They knew that a fine is different from a tax, and that a mandate imposes a fine or other penalties for noncompliant behavior and does not levy taxes. All peaceful means for redress of grievances having thus been foreclosed, Donald Trump and the people were left with no other option but to resort to the use of force. Their actions were guided by the founding document of America. Adopted on July 4, 1776 by the Second Continental Congress at the Pennsylvania State House, the Declaration of Indepedence proclaims: "Whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends [the protection of life and liberty], it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness." Directed against a federal government which had violated the constitutional right to vote in free, fair and lawfully conducted elections, and had prevented the peaceful redress of grievances, Donald Trump and the people declared war. Their rioting was justified. Their vandalism was justified. Their looting was justified. Their ransacking was justified. Their assaults were justified. Their subversion was justified. During his term of office, Donald Trump had many great achievements: the fastest rowing economy in history: the lowest unemployment in fifty years; the repeal of the individual health insurance mandate fine; victory over the Islamic State and Islamic terror; the construction of a border wall and the enforcement of immigration laws; the reduction of tensions with North Korea; peace in the Middle East; three Supreme Court justices and record judicial appointments; Operation Warp Speed, which created the covid vaccine and reduced hospitalization rates; the creation of economic opportunity zones in cities across the nation; national energy independence; and massive, across across the board tax reductions and deregulation of business. The attempted insurrection staged on January 6, 2021, stopping the federal government for twenty four hours, was the greatest and most enduring achievement of Donald Trump.

WANTED: DEAD OR ALIVE

In December 1949, a discussion took place between J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and William Hutchinson, editor in chief of the International News Service. The discussion was about ways to capture America's most dangerous fugitives and Hutchinson asked Hoover for the names and descriptions of ten of these fugitives, so that he could publish them. In an article published on March 14, 1950, the FBI's Ten Most Wanted Fugitives appeared. It received nationwide publicity, excited the attention and vigilance of the people, and formed the basis of the most successful program of fugitive apprehension in the history of law enforcement. A half a century after the establishment of the FBI's famously successful program, decent, law abiding Americans have demanded the capture of the most dangerous criminal in the nation. He is the most dangerous because his crimes have shattered the foundations of the government, the dignity of his office and the survival of the rule of law. He is the most dangerous because he has betrayed the trust of the people and committed acts of treason without precedent in the history of the nation. He is the most dangerous because he has created the worst political scandal in the history of the nation and transformed a Western constitutional republic into a South American plantation ruled by him and his family which has defined the term corruption. His name is Joe Biden; he is the forty sixth president of the United States; and he has buried the nation in a global haul of bribes and abuse of power which has suffocated freedom for all time to come. Decent, law abiding Americans have seen the transgressions of Joe Biden and seen the last act of the nation staged before their very eyes, an act rolling down their newspapers, internet pages and television screens in the dark words governmental subversion and disrepute of the presidency, and have demanded his capture, dead or alive. Joe Biden, directly or through his sons Hunter and James, sold access to his office when he was vice president, from 2009 to 2017, and promised access for money in a future presidential administration when he was out of office. Joe Biden, directly or through his sons Hunter and James, promised official actions by himself in exchange for money from foreign and domestic business partners. Joe Biden, in exchange for money, made appearances, made telephone calls, and met with business partners who sought access to him. Joe Biden, through his son Hunter, threatened business partners and told them that official actions would be taken against them if they did not pay him money. Joe Biden transformed the highest levels of the federal government into his personal platform, real estate and profit center: "According to reports released by the United States House of Representatives Oversight and Accountability Committee, James Biden promised access to a future Biden administration and 'the highest levels of government' and that his brother Joe Biden had been made aware of his business dealings, which would be made profitable when they could become part of the Biden platform. James Biden would often explain over the phone that Joe Biden was in the room with him, and James Biden had been explaining the deal to him." (Impeaching Joseph Robinette Biden Jr, President of the United States, for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, resolution submitted by Representative Greg Steube, 118th Congress). Joe Biden and his family utilized business associates, wire transfers and dummy bank accounts to rake in millions from Chinese companies in exchange for Chinese access to his office: "Hunter Biden, James Biden, Hallie Biden, an unknown 'Biden' and their companies collectively received 1.3 million dollars in payments from accounts related to Rob Walker, a Biden family associate. On March 1, 2017, less than two months after Vice President Joe Biden left public office, State Energy HK Limited, a Chinese company, wired three million dollars to Rob Walker's company. The next day, the company wired 1,065,000 dollars to a company associated with James Gilliar, another Biden family associate. Afterwards, the Biden family received approximately 1,065,000 dollars in payments over a three month period in different bank accounts. From the bank records, it appears that the Biden family received approximately one third of the money obtained from wires from China." (Impeaching Joseph Robinette Biden Jr, President of the United States, for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, resolution submitted by Representative Greg Steube, 118th Congress). Joe Biden was the commander of a global mafia army and gave instructions to his officers to sell has name, his brand, his power and his office to Chinese businesses: "Previously, in a 2011 email, Hunter Biden described his value to Chinese investors as 'everything to do with my last name.' In another correspondence with Chinese investors, Hunter said 'we should be able to achieve a great deal. Just give me my marching orders.' " (Impeaching Joseph Robinette Biden Jr, President of the United States, for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, resolution submitted by Representative Greg Steube, 118th Congress). Joe Biden raked in millions of dollars from Russia's oligarchs in exchange for releasing them from economic sanctions imposed by the United States: "In 2014, Russian oligarch Elena Baturina paid a company connected to Hunter Biden over three million dollars. Also in 2014, Elena Baturina attended a dinner with Hunter Biden and Joe Biden in the Georgetown neighborhood of Washington DC. Notably, Elena Baturina, one of Russia's wealthiest individuals, has not been included in Treasury Department sanctions against many of Russia's other wealthiest people." (Impeaching Joseph Robinette Biden Jr, President of the United States, for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, resolution submitted by Representative Greg Steube, 118th Congress). Joe Biden placed his son Hunter on the board of directors of Burisma to serve as a shill for his influence peddling operation: "Additionally, the Biden family received improper payments from Ukrainian energy company Burisma. Hunter Biden received millions of dollars in payments from Burisma from serving on its board. These payments were made entirely based on Hunter Biden's connections to Joe Biden and promised access to Joe Biden." (Impeaching Joseph Robinette Biden Jr, President of the United States, for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, resolution submitted by Representative Greg Steube, 118th Congress). Joe Biden placed his son Hunter on the board of directors of Burisma to sell Biden's dark service: access to his office. Joe Biden had his son receive 800,000 dollars a month to serve as a salesmen for his corruption. Joe Biden made his own policy in Ukraine, American policy; he made his own interests in Ukraine, American interests; he made the office of vice president, his own office; he made Hunter Biden's position on Burisma, his own position; and he betrayed the trust of the people as he scorned integrity in government and mocked the rule of law with an influence peddling operation which netted him millions of dollars: "In 2015, then Vice President Joe Biden attended a dinner in the Georgetown neighborhood of Washington DC with Russian executives and Joe Biden. At the time, Hunter was receiving over 800,000 dollars a month from Burisma based on no other reason than access to his father. Several officials in the Obama administration specifically flagged these payments from Burisma to Hunter as corrupt. In early 2015, the former Deputy Chief of Mission at the US Embassy in Kyiv, Ukraine, George Kent, raised concerns to officials in Vice President Joe Biden's office about the perception of a conflict of interest with respect to Hunter Biden's role on Burisma's board. In October 2015, senior State Department official Amos Hochstein raised concerns with Vice President Biden, as well as with Hunter Biden, that Hunter Biden's position on Burisma's board enabled Russian disinformation efforts and risked undermining US policy in Ukraine." (Impeaching Joseph Robinette Biden Jr, President of the United States, for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, resolution submitted by Representative Greg Steube, 118th Congress). Joe Biden was involved in Hunter Biden's business deals because his son's deals were his own deals, the aim of which was to sell access to his office. Hunter Biden's business partners were Joe Biden's business partners, the task of whom was to sell access to his office. In conference calls with Hunter Biden and his business partners, Joe Biden was moved by a single nefarious aim, to sell his name, his brand, his office, his influence, his nation and two centuries of constitutional government in an organized crime operation recruiting his family and spanning the globe: "In an August 2023 interview, Devon Archer, a business partner of Hunter Biden, said claims that Joe Biden was not involved in Hunter's business deals were false. In testimony before Congress, admitted that Burisma would have likely gone out of business had it not been for the Biden brand being attached to it. He also testified that Biden was routinely put on conference calls with Hunter Biden's foreign associates to 'sell the brand'." (Impeaching Joseph Robinette Biden Jr, President of the United States, for High Crimes and Misdemeanors, resolution submitted by Representative Greg Steube, 118th Congress). He was an American gangster during the Great Depression who robbed twenty four banks and four police stations. He escaped twice from prison and evaded police capture in four states. During his four year ride of wildness and ferocity, he became America's Public Enemy Number One. On July 22, 1934, agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation closed in on the Biograph Theater in Chicago. As John Dillinger was leaving the theater, he was shot dead. A century after the depredations of John Dillinger, decent, law abiding Americans have been confronted by a public enemy who has held up and raided the bank of the nation's freedom and its commitment to the rule of law. Protected by the establishment, he has escaped justice and gone unpunished. Decent, law abiding Americans seek the capture of this greatest of all public enemies and have loaded their rifles for the recompense of the nation.

WORLD CITIES FORM RED NETWORK

A dystopia is a society which is undesirable and frightening to civilized people. It is the opposite of utopia, a term coined by Thomas More which first appeared as the title of his most famous work, published in 1519. A dystopia is marked by distress, tyranny, disaster and cataclysmic moral, political and economic decline. It is marked by propaganda, censorship, the denial of free thought, the loss of individual rights and the enforcement of conformity. The most famous example of a dystopia in fiction appears in the novel Nineteen Eighty Four by George Orwell, which drew the attention of the world to the system of communist totalitarianism. From the pages of Orwell's dark classic and the dungeons of the former communist bloc, a dystopia is being planned in the twenty first century by a global network of cities. Called the C40 Cities Climate Leadership Group, it is a network comprised of one hundred cities throughout the world, representing one tenth of the world's population and one quarter of the world's economy. It was founded in 2005 by London Mayor Ken Livingstone. Publicly identifying himself as a communist, Livingstone has called for the destruction of Israel and the establishment of a Palestinian terror state. He has condemned capitalism, zionism, Israel and the West as systems and bodies personified by Adolf Hitler. He has advocated the establishment of a global coalition comprised of Islamists, Marxists and Irish Republicans dedicated to the destruction of liberal democratic order. He is wildly popular among the sewer classes flooding across British society and is described by British journalist Charles Moore as "the only truly successful left wing British politician of modern times." (Make London Part Of Britain Again by Charles Moore, The Telegraph, April 21, 2007). Reaching across London, New York, Paris, Freetown, Barcelona, Phoenix, Tokyo, Buenos Aires, Bogota, Abidjan, Montreal, Milan, Austin, Boston, Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York City, Philadelphia, Phoenix, Portland, San Francisco, Seattle and Hong Kong, the C40 Cities Climate Leadership Group is preparing the concentration camps, the gas chambers and the lambs for slaughter it envisions encompassing all mankind. Headquartered in Washington DC, this successor network to the Moscow based Communist International has set forth a blueprint for a totalitarian tyranny paraded under banners marked global climate emergency and the elimination of greenhouse gas emissions. Look at the program of the C40 Cities Climate Leadership Group and see cities advocate communism in the name of science, fairness, equity, urban strength and human health. See them advocate communism in the form of green jobs and green projects. See them advocate communism as the key to the survival, success and flourishing of cities. See them plan to halt the wheels of industrial and technological progress in the name of reducing global warming and saving the planet: "C40 is a global network of nearly 100 mayors of the world’s leading cities that are united in action to confront the climate crisis. Mayors of C40 cities are committed to using an inclusive, science based and collaborative approach to cut their fair share of emissions in half by 2030, help the world limit global heating to 1.5°C, and build healthy, equitable and resilient communities. C40 supports mayors to do this by: 1. Raising climate ambition through 1.5 degree Celsius action plan support, high impact accelerators and fostering innovation. 2. Building equitable and thriving communities via global and regional programs. 3. Building a global movement through robust international advocacy and diplomacy. 3. Scaling up climate action and sharing best practices across high impact sectors. 4. Facilitating access to finance for investment in green jobs and projects that improve resilience in cities." (c40.org/about-c40). See the world's cities plan for the abolition of automobiles and the establishment of a bikable, walkable, solar powered, geothermal powered, carbon neutral, communist nightmare: "Berlin is planning a carbon neutral, car free community for 10,000 people on the site of the former Tegel Airport. The Tegel Projekt will be a transformation of the old airport building, as well as new construction on the surrounding site. The reimagined space will be home to 5,000 new apartments, as well as shops, restaurants, schools and parks. It will be a walkable, bikeable, car free neighbourhood, designed with people rather than vehicles in mind. All energy will be produced on site, including solar and geothermal power. The construction of the new neighborhood will create eighty percent fewer emissions than a standard construction site, and some areas will be ready by 2027."

(c40.org/news/green-news-digest-august-2022). See world's cities plan for the reduction of civilization to a green wasteland through which people can walk, cycle and move freely on mass transit and in which they can breathe the unclean air of collectivism: "As mayors of some of the world's great cities, we are committed to transforming them into greener, healthier, and more prosperous places to live. Our streets must be safe and accessible for everybody and our air must be clean and free from harmful emissions. This will improve the quality of life for all residents, and help tackle the global threat of climate change. We envision a future where walking, cycling, and shared transport are how the majority of residents move around our cities. This shift towards zero emission mobility will result in less congestion and less pollution, while making our roads quieter and the air we breathe cleaner." (c40.org/accelerators/green-healthy-streets). See the world's cities plan for the abolition of modern agriculture with its use of pesticides and fertilizers. See them plan for the prohibition of meat consumption and the regimentation of people's diets in accordance with the tenets of political correctness: "The Food Systems Network has had a fundamental role in the success of the C40 Good Food Cities Accelerator, where leading cities helped develop the ambition of science based targets. The commitment was launched at the 2019 C40 Global Mayors Summit and cosigned by fourteen cities who agreed to work with their residents towards achieving a Planetary Health Diet for all by 2030, with balanced and nutritious food, reflective of the culture, geography, and demography of their residents. These goals are met by delivering the following measures: 1. Align food procurement to the Planetary Health Diet, ideally sourced from organic agriculture. 2. Support an overall increase of healthy, plant based food consumption in cities by shifting away from unsustainable, unhealthy diets." (c40.org/networks/food-systems-network). See the world's cities plan for communism in the name of benefiting the many and punishing the few who oppress and exploit the many and pollute the planet. See them plan for communism in the name of liberating low income workers. See them plan for communism in the name of lifting up the the weak. See them plan for communism in the name of advancing justice. See them plan for communism in the name of protecting the health and welfare of the people. See them plan to deprive people of their rights and freedoms under banners marked Bold Climate Action and an Equity Pledge: "Climate change is unfair. It is created by the few and will hit the many hardest and strongest. Mayors signing up to the C40 Equity Pledge commit to increasing action on: 1. Community led development. 2. Inclusive climate action and infrastructure projects that achieve major environmental, health, social and economic benefits, especially in low income and vulnerable communities. 3. Deliver bold climate action that benefits all residents equitably. Equity Pledge signatories that are looking to share and learn from other cities about how to deliver equitable, just climate action can join the Inclusive Climate Action Forum." (c40.org/accelerators/equity-pledge). See world's cities plan for communism in the name of eliminating poverty and inequality. See them plan for communism in the name of protecting the moral sewers flooding the margins and the undergrounds of society. See them advocate communism as an environmental issue. See them plan for communism in the name of establishing renewable and sustainable forms of energy and eliminating greenhouse gas emissions. See them advocate communism in the name of improving the people's working conditions. See them plan for the establishment of a primitive communist society and the destruction of industrial and technological development to be carried out by red guards working in green jobs: "The climate crisis is not only an environmental issue. It is also linked to challenges like poverty and inequality, as low income and marginalized communities are often more affected by the impacts of climate breakdown. Creating new local jobs and improving working conditions are among the most tangible benefits of city climate action. At the global scale, the evidence is clear: many sustainable investments offer more significant job creation potential than their high carbon equivalents. Additionally, according to C40 research, for C40 cities to contribute their fair share towards reducing emissions and limiting global heating to 1.5°C, 50 million green jobs are urgently needed. Los Angeles has heard this call and is taking urgent, science based and community led action to reduce emissions while creating a thriving and sustainable local economy." (c40.org/news/from-oil-fields-to-green-jobs-path to sustainable-resilient-economy-los-angeles). On February 27, 1933, four weeks after national socialist leader Adolf Hitler was sworn in as Chancellor of Germany, a Dutch communist named Marinus van der Lubbe set fire to the Reichstag building, the home of the German parliament. Hitler declared a state of emergency and advised President Paul von Hindenberg to issue the Reichstag Fire Decree, which nullified the constitution and abolished the rights and freedoms of the people. Repeating Hitler's playbook, a global network of cities today has rung the alarm bells and manufactured the flames of a climate emergency in a plan to nullify constitutional government and establish a communist new order.

THE THREE AGES OF THE WEST

Before the era of modern communications, church bells were a common way to call people together. Hung high atop the churches within steeples, the bells called people to weddings, funerals, town meetings and to celebrate holidays. Their peals echoed like gunfire through the streets, rolled like thunder across the land and reverberated like tiny hammer strikes within the brain. In the year 1000 AD, bells across Europe tolled and announced the creation of a new culture. Amidst the rubble and ruination of the Classical world, struck down by the forces of moral degeneration unleashing hordes of Christians, Germans and domestic communist mobs, people came together and saw a vision of an avatar. It was the manifestation of the Devil and a man yet to be born. Its name was Faust and it was a doctor and diabolist who had sold its soul to the Devil in exchange for infinite will, power, feeling and experience. This new culture, this northern culture, this Germanic culture, this plunge into darkness and this Western Culture, would be as different as different could be from the Classical Culture of the Greeks and Romans born two thousand years before in Southern Europe. Emerging from a southern landscape defined by the morning light, this culture spoke to its inhabitants through the figure of Apollo, the god of reason. Emerging from a northern landscape defined by soaring deciduous trees creating an eternal evening gloom, the new culture of Faust brought to its benighted inhabitants a black gospel of will power and subjectivism. It would last for a thousand years and pass through three ages before its death in the twenty first century. The conventional division of Western history into ancient, medieval and modern ages denies the reality that the ancient age belonged in fact to Apollo and not to Faust, inasmuch as the Greeks and Romans never denied what Faust in his psychosis denied: the primacy of reason and common sense, the existence of physical objects, and man's ability to perceive physical objects. Enacting Faust's satanic religion, the new Culture of the West would pass through three ages, but no age would, as the ancient age in the conventional timeline, belong to another culture, and each age would reflect a different aspect of Faust. The three ages are as follows: the Age of preEnlightenment; the Age of the Renissance and Enlightenment; and the Age of PostEnlightenment. The preEnlightenment age lasted from 1000 AD to the late fifteenth century. The Age of the Renaissance and Enlightenment lasted from the fifteenth century to the end of the eighteenth century; and the PostEnlightenment Age commenced around 1800 and marks the present day. The Age of PreEnlightenment. The first age of Faust's new world was the Dark Ages and was under the dictatorship of the Catholic Church. It was an age of otherworldly mysticism and blind obedience to the dogma that faith is superior to reason. It was an age of stagnation, superstition and denigration of physical reality in favor of a life to come. It was an age in which nature was seen to be a field of miracles created by God, who could violate the laws of sanity and make two and two equal eight, make a triangle to be at the same time a square, make a square to be at the same time a circle, make something appear out of absolute nothing, make snow to burst into flames, make elecricity to be a freezing current, and make something to be black all over and white all over at one and the same time.

In the world unique Gothic cathedral with its Faustian antiarchitecture of pure space, seeking to deny the reality of mass and weight, load and support, true believers gathered, prayed and worshipped the infinite, incoherent, contradictory, unperceivable, supernatural, antiexistence they called God. The first age of Faust was an age of cold, dark winds whistling through empty, rubble strewn streets, proclaiming that man's good is God, man's ladder is God, man's perfection is God, man's existence is God, man's heaven is God, man's paradise is God, man's purification is God, man's illumination is God, man's highest contemplation is God, man's life is God, man's highest image is the image of God, and man's meaning and mission in life is God: "The mystic, as we have seen, makes it his life's aim to be transformed into the likeness of Him in whose image he was created. He loves to figure his path as a ladder reaching from earth to heaven, which must be climbed step by step. This scale of perfection is generally divided into three stages. The first is called the purgative life, the second the illuminative, while the third, which is really the goal rather than a part of the journey, is called the unitive life, or state of perfect contemplation. We find, as we should expect, some differences in the classification, but this tripartite scheme is generally accepted." (Christian Mysticism by William Ralph Inge). The Age of the Renaissance and Enlightenment. The will to power which activated Faust produced a beneficial result in the second age of the West. It produced a rebirth of reason and science but made them instruments of prediction and control. Reason and science were utiilized by the Faustians, not for grasping the real, qualitative reality of nature, but for grasping the mathematical structure of nature. For the first time in the history of mankind, reason and science were utilized to command the forces of nature and to develop high technology. This Faustian version of science utilized the empirical method for the purpose of achieving mathematical, technological and industrial progress, and made Western civilization the first and only technical civilization in the history of mankind. Listen to the glorious voices of reason and science reborn. Listen to Francis Bacon proclaim that induction is the basis of all true science: "The syllogism is made up of propositions, propositions of words, and words are markers of notions. Thus if the notions themselves (and this is the heart of the matter) are confused, and recklessly abstracted from things, nothing built on them is sound. The only hope therefore lies in true Induction." (Novum Organum by Francis Bacon, Aphorism Four). Listen to John Locke proclaim that all knowledge is derived from the senses: "If we will attentively consider new born children, we shall have little reason to think, that they bring many ideas into the world with them. Rather, by degrees, afterwards, ideas come into their minds; and they get no more, nor no other, than what experience, and the observation of things, that come in their way, furnish them with." (An Essay Concerning Human Understanding by John Locke). Listen to Issac Newton proclaim the primacy of experimentation and induction in science: "In experimental philosophy we are to look upon propositions inferred by general induction from phenomena as accurately or very nearly true, not withstanding any contrary hypothesis that may be imagined, till such time as other phenomena occur, by which they may either be made more accurate, or liable to exceptions." (Mathematical Principles Of Natural Philosophy by Isaac Newton, Book Three). This Renaissance, this Scientific Revolution, this Age of Reason and this Age of Enlightenment was stalked from its very beginning by the irrational side of Faust and was eventually devoured by its advancing shadow. Before this terrifying Faustian form moving across the Sun, the Age of Enlightenment was marked for doom on the day it was born, and after two centuries, it finally self destructed. Positioned at the beginning and end of this age were two philosophers who are most influential philosophers in the West, who voiced Faustian psychosis as no other philosophers did, and who set it into motion toward its final development. Diligently active during this age, they diligently and actively worked to undermine it. Listen to Rene Descartes proclaim that the only thing we can know and be certain of is the existence of our own consciousness, and our own mental states form the first principle and foundation of all philosophy: "But immediately upon this I observed that, while I thus wished to think that all was false, it was absolutely necessary that I, who thus thought, should be something. And as I observed that this truth, I think, therefore I am, was so certain and of such evidence that no ground of doubt, however extravagant, could be alleged by the Skeptics capable of shaking it, I concluded that I might, without scruple, accept it as the first principle of the philosophy of which I was in search." (Discourse On Method by Rene Descartes). Listen to Immanuel Kant proclaim that because man's power of perception necessarily precedes his actual perception of objects, all knowledge is given prior to actual acts of perception: "Since, then, the receptivity of the subject, its capacity to be affected by objects, must necessarily precede all perceptions of these objects, it can readily be understood how knowledge can be given prior to all actual perceptions, and so exist in the mind apriori." (Critique Of Pure Reason by Immanuel Kant). Listen to Kant proclaim that this prior existing power of perception serves as a fixed screen which forever prevents the perception of reality and establishes that when man perceives something, he in fact perceives nothing at all, and that man is blind because he has eyes: "Objects are mere representations and not things in themselves. Space and time only subjective forms of our perception, not determinations given for themselves or conditions of objects as things in themselves". (Critique Of Pure Reason by Immanuel Kant). The Age of PostEnlightenment. The death of Kant in 1804 marked the death of the Age of Enlightenment and the beginning of a neoCartesian, neoKantian degeneration of the West into a metasticizing cancer of pure, unadulterated psychosis. The history of Western philosophy since the early nineteenth century is the history of a mighty river of philosophic inquiry vanishing into streams and brooks of schizophrenic withdrawal and disappearing into the black soil of the Devil. The spreading cancer and the vanishing streams: George Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel proclaims physical objects are illusions and mind is the sole reality: "The real is rational; the rational is real". Friedrich Nietzsche proclaims that physical objects are illusions and reality is the will to power. Karl Marx proclaims that physical objects are illusions and reality is social reality and is a class construct. Edmund Husserl proclaims that physical objects are illusions and reality consists of "pure ideas and essences" which are grasped by "bracketing" the "natural attitude" that matter exists. Martin Heidegger proclaims that physical objects are illusions and reality is dasein or the "thereness" of human consciousness which is disembodied and is nowhere. John Dewey proclaims that physical objects are illusions and reality is manufactured by the needs, interests and problems to be solved by society. Ludwig Wittgenstein proclaims that physical objects are illusions and reality consists of words, statements, "language games", linguistic puzzles and linguistic rectifications. Jurgen Habermas proclaims that physical objects are illusions and reality is manufactured by public communication, social structures, the "public sphere" and societal consensus. The socalled postmodernists proclaim that physical objects are illusions and reality consists of local narratives, local references, local constructions and local deconstructions of consciousness. Calling themselves postmodernists, the members of this movement are in fact pure modernists inasmuch as the period of modernity succeeding the Age of the Renaissance and Enlightenment has denied the existence of physical objects. In the twenty first century, the West has traveled full circle and ended where it commenced. Consigning the Age of Enlightenment to a distant memory and museum case buried at the bottom of the ocean, the West has replunged into darkness. The latest and last version of its Faustian pathology is the cancer of gender, race and class ideologies together with a resurgent Christianity. At the end of the age, a pincer movement has appeared. It is comprised of neoKantian, neoMarxist identity politics and a new Catholic Inquisition. The first proclaims that reality is social, tribal, multiple and endlessly fragmented in character, while the second has given government the right to declare that a one celled zygote appearing at the moment of conception contains a supernatural person and its destruction is an act of murder. Commanded by Faust, this pincer movement has gripped, pulled and mauled apart the life of reason and announced the collapse of the West.

DR ZHIVAGO DIAGNOSES DEATH

It was the most famously censored book of all time. It was refused publication in the author's native land of Russia and for decades it was concealed from the Russian people and the people of the communist bloc. It was smuggled out of Russia in 1957 and published in Italy and became an international bestseller. Its author was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature for it in 1958. It was made into a film in 1966 and the film became an international box office success, received multiple Academy awards, and ranks as one of the greatest films of all time. The book is the story of a land placed under the control of communism. A land in which privately owned homes have been taken over by the government and have vanished. A land in which truth is not allowed to be spoken out loud and the iron heel of political correctness has flattened all discussion and debate. A land in which the poor have declared war on the rich, the have nots have declared war on the haves, the ignorant have declared war on the intelligent, and the unsuccessful have declared war on the successful. A land in which communist commissars and community organizers wield unchecked power. A land in which the media have joined forces to protect the communist state, to work as allies of the communist state, and to transmit communist indoctrination from their dark towers into every home, school, office and enterprise. A land in which children are propagandized in schools and taken away from their parents. A land in which the voices of dissent are subjected to purges, show trials, imprisonment and execution. A land in which the rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual have been reduced to a dead letter and a supreme law rules over society: the individual exists to serve the collective. The book is called Dr Zhivago and its author is Boris Pasternak. Sixty years after its publication, the book has entered into terrifying actuality and become the story of our times. Sixty years after its publication, the book has become a record, an account, a photograph, a dissection and an autopsy of the sickness of our age and the picture of a society, once civilized, once enlightened, once the transmitter to the world of the ideals founded during its Age of Enlightenment, descended into total ruination. Look at the West today and see the balalaika carried by the book's protagonist, Dr Yuri Zhivago, weave the sounds of downfall and destruction into every corner of society. Look at the West today and see the nightmare pages of Dr Zhivago come alive and devour one thousand years of liberal traditions and institutions and form a dark, satanic sheaf hanging from the coffin and gravestone of civilization. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as Progressivism at the turn of the twentieth century and allowed to repeal constitutional government. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as a New Deal and Social Security in the 1930s and allowed to reduce the United States Supreme Court to a sham. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as a New Frontier in the 1960s and allowed to take the American people into a swampland in which they "ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country." Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as a Great Society. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as Centrism. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as Compassionate Conservatism. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as a Social Market. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as a Third Way. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as a welfare state. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as a regulatory state. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as National Health Insurance. Dr Zhivago in the West: communism packaged as Hope and Change and the Affordable Care Act. Dr Zhivago and the West: transgender ideology, which rejects one hundred years of scientific research establishing that gender is determined by genes and is fixed and immutable, and proclaims that gender can be changed by medical intervention or by a simple feeling, belief and declaration that one is a member of the opposite sex. Dr Zhivago in the West: the policy of diversity and inclusion, which proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal principle of color blindness and gender blindness, establishes race and gender quotas, percentages and timetables for schools, offices and businesses, and enforces a policy of discrimination against whites and males, in the name of fairness and equity. Dr Zhivago in the West: the doctrines of Herbert Marcuse. According to Marcuse, a progressive society has stamped out freedom of speech. A progressive society has criminalized the expression of anticommunist thoughts and opinions. A progressive society is a partisan society which has placed a barbed wire fence around the liberal conscience. A progressive society is a subversive society which has overthrown the government of free people. A progressive society is a censoring society which has hammered people into submission by the iron heel of political correctness. A progressive society is a violent, intolerant, communist society which peddles its violence, intolerance and communism in the name of tolerance and liberation. A progressive society has cleared away the obstructions created by constitutional rights and is a mental and physical space reserved for the totalitarian enemies of modern civilization: "This essay examines the idea of tolerance in our advanced industrial society. The conclusion reached is that the realization of the objective of tolerance would call for intolerance toward prevailing policies, attitudes, opinions, and the extension of tolerance to policies, attitudes, and opinions which are outlawed or suppressed. In other words, today tolerance appears again as what it was in its origins, at the beginning of the modern period--a partisan goal, a subversive liberating notion and practice. Conversely, what is proclaimed and practiced as tolerance today, is in many of its most effective manifestations serving the cause of oppression. The author is fully aware that, at present, no power, no authority, no government exists which would translate liberating tolerance into practice, but he believes that it is the task and duty of the intellectual to recall and preserve historical possibilities which seem to have become utopian possibilities--that it is his task to break the concreteness of oppression in order to open the mental space in which this society can be recognized as what it is and does." (Represssive Tolerance by Herbert Marcuse). Dr Zhivago in the West: the doctrines of Marcuse's most famous student, Angela Davis. According to Davis, a progressive society is a radical society. A progressive society is a black power society. A progressive society is a society in which only communists are allowed to teach. A progressive society is patrolled by youthful red guards spreading terror in the streets and wearing armbands with the images of their favorite heroes, the communist demagogues Fidel Castro, Huey Newton, Nelson Mandela, Amilcar Cabral, Jacqueline Creft, Maurice Bishop and Martin Luther King: "What I am suggesting is that those of us who are elders have to stop functioning as gatekeepers. We cannot establish age and civil rights or black power experience as the main criteria for radical black political leadership today. How old was Dr Martin Luther King when he became the spokesperson for the Montgomery bus boycott? He was 26 years old. How old was Diane Nash? How old was Huey Newton? Fidel Castro? Nelson Mandela? Amilcar Cabral? Jacqueline Creft? Maurice Bishop? As for myself, I was only 25 years old when I had to confront Ronald Reagan over the issue of my right as a communist to teach at UCLA. We cannot deny young people their rightful place in this movement today or it will be our downfall." (The Meaning Of Freedom by Angela Davis). Dr Zhivago in the West: the doctrines of Paulo Friere. According to Friere, the perceived world of physical objects is an illusion and a product of naive, untutored and simplistic ways of thinking. Progressive philosophy is critical of the Enlightenment view that a world of physical objects exists and consciousness perceives it. Progressive philosophy understands that the world does not exist apart from people and that reality does not exist apart from consciousness. Progressive philosophy understands that there is no such thing as physical reality and the sole reality is mental, man made, social reality: "To deny the importance of subjectivity in the process of transforming the world and history is naive and simplistic. It is to admit the impossible: a world without people. This objectivist position is as ingenuous as that of subjectivism, which latter postulates people without a world. World and human beings do not exist apart from each other, they exist in constant interaction. Man does not espouse such a dichotomy; nor does any other critical, realistic thinker. What Marx criticized and scientifically destroyed was not subjectivity, but subjectivism and psychologism. Just as objective social reality exists not by chance, but as the product of human action, so it is not transformed by chance. If people produce social reality (which in the inversion of the praxis turns back upon them and conditions them), then transforming that reality is a historical task, a task for humanity." (Pedagogy Of The Oppressed by Paulo Friere). Dr Zhivago in the West: the doctrines of Derrick Bell. According to Bell, progressive political theory is critical race theory. It is critical of the ideals of the Enlightenment, ideals centered upon the existence of objective reality, human essentialism, human universality and equal protection under the law, and views man and society through the lens of race, and advocates the establishment of a black communist totalitarian dictatorship. Progressive political theory understands that law is an instrument of power and legal interpretation is not an objective act of deduction based upon the meaning of the text, but is an act of creation and construction expressing the needs and interests of the group in power. Progressive political theory seeks to create and construct law as an instrument of black power and the disenfranchisement and extermination of whites: "Black people need reform of our civil rights strategies as badly as those in the law needed a new way to consider American jurisprudence. prior to the advent of the Legal Realists. By viewing the law--and by extension, the courts--as instruments for preserving the status quo and only periodically and unpredictably serving as a refuge of oppressed people, blacks can refine the work of the Realists. Rather than challenging the entire jurisprudential system, as the Realists did, blacks' focus must be much narrower--a challenge to the principle of racial equality. This new movement is appropriately called Racial Realism, and it is a legal and social mechanism on which blacks can rely to have their voice and outrage heard." (Racial Realism by Derrick Bell, Connecticut Law Review, Volume 24, Number 2, Winter 1992). Across the horizons of the twenty first century gallop the horsemen of the apocalypse. There are thousands of them and they form a metasticizing communist cancer which has sabotaged the traditions and institutions inherited from the Enlightenment. They are the horsemen of gender, race and class politics and they have brought a black gospel demanding the abolition of individual rights. A gospel of class struggle and government confiscation and redistribution of wealth. A gospel of gender struggle and feminist war against the male population. A gospel of racial struggle and black war against the white population. A gospel of transgender psychosis and war against reality. A gospel of radical environmentalism and war against industrial and technological civilization. A gospel of safe spaces, hate speech codes and war against the anticommunist opposition. A gospel of democratic socialism with its war rifles of majoritarian tyranny. A gospel of communist shareholders, directors and executive suites waging war for control of corporations throughout the world. Powered by an engine of oppression and imperialism, these voices of the apocalypse have roared out the final seconds of the West.

CLIMATE REDS BURN DOWN HAWAII

The Saboteur's Favorite Weapon Is Arson! A thin wisp of smoke in the quiet hours, a belated alarm, and the damage is done. The saboteur chalks up another victory as important as any won in the front line trenches. Be vigilant! Be alert! Be careful! Know your fire prevention appliances. Never forget that America's front line is the production line. It's here! Thus speaks an American poster from World War II warning of the threat of arson. This serious crime has existed for thousands of years and is solemnly codified in the system of common law governing England and Wales and in the pages of the venerable Black's Law Dictionary. In the twenty first century, a new war has engulfed the West, far deadlier and more dangerous than World War II. It is war conducted by the environmentalist movement; its target is the world of modernity, progress and civilization; and among its favorite weapons is arson. This weapon leaves nothing in its wake beyond the empty remains of living beings and man made structures veiled in clouds of smoke and ash, and is a weapon whose trail of destruction serves as a terrifying symbol of the campaign conducted by this variant and offshoot of Marxism. Proceeding from the devil's womb of the original, template class Marxism developed in the nineteenth century, three delinquent children were born in the twentieth century. They formed three Gorgons whose snake hairs flowed with venom and hate, and they commenced a mighty rampage. These monstrous sisters were race Marxism, whose target was white people, gender Marxism, whose target was males, and green Marxism, whose target was human existence, and their mission was to deploy their favorite weapon, the weapon of arson, and burn their victims to the ground. In August 2023, in the American state of Hawaii, on the island of Maui, the green Marxists struck and let a wildfire reduce this second largest island in the state, this seventeenth largest island in America, this bustling two thousand square kilometer expanse of agricultural production and information technology, to a burnt, blackened, silent wasteland stalked by the shadows of the dead. The wildfire was started by a downed power line and was not extinguished but allowed to spread and intensify by the dry gusts and high pressure blasts of the environmentalist movement in control of the fiftieth state in the nation. The wake of the wildfire brought scenes of devastation forming a hellscape imaginable in a nightmare and in a nightmare alone: streets cluttered with burnt cars; seven thousand hectares of land burnt; three thousand buildings burnt; one hundred people killed; one thousand people missing; and six billion dollars in damages inflicted. Hawaii was allowed to burn uncontrolled for four days, from August 8 to 12, and burn to the ground, in the deadliest American wildfire in a century, by environmentalist sun worshipers whose God is Nature and for whom the life of man must be sacrificed upon the altar of the air, water, plants and animals. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who believe that nonhuman forms of life are sacred and require protection at the expense of man, who is an aberration and interloper in nature and stands in the way of the nature's processes and development. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who believe that human safety and comfort must be sacrificed on the altar of the mystical Earth Mother. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who sought to preserve native cultural practices at the expense of human life and property: "With wildfires ravaging West Maui on August 8, a state water official delayed the release of water that landowners wanted to help protect their property from fires. The water standoff played out over much of the day and the water didn’t come until too late. The dispute involved the Department of Land and Natural Resources’ water resource management division and West Maui Land Company, which manages agricultural and residential subdivisions in West Maui, as well as Launiupoko Irrigation Company, Olowalu Water Company and Haiku Water Association. The DLNR delayed releasing water requested by West Maui Land Company to help prevent the spread of fire, sources familiar with the situation said. Specifically, according to accounts of four people with knowledge of the situation, M. Kaleo Manuel, a Native Hawaiian cultural practitioner and DLNR’s deputy director for water resource management, initially balked at West Maui Land Company's requests for additional water to help prevent the fire from spreading to properties managed by the company. According to the sources, Manuel wanted West Maui Land to get permission from a taro, or kalo, farm located downstream from the company’s property. Manuel eventually released water but not until after the fire had spread." (A State Official Refused To Release Water For West Maui Fires by Stewart Yerton, Honolulu Civil Beat, August 15, 2023). Hawaii was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who let an ocean of flames roll through the island in the name of obeying mystical ancient antiwisdom, mystical ecological antiknowledge and native, savage ways of perceiving and thinking: "Kaleo is the Deputy Director of the State of Hawaii Commission on Water Resource Management. He believes that ancient wisdom and traditional ecological knowledge of native peoples will help save the Earth. Kaleo is passionate about elevating native and indigenous ways of knowing in all spheres of discourse and dialogue." (Kaleo Manuel, Obama Foundation website, obama.org). Hawaii was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who had refused to deal with the fire risk attendant upon downed power lines. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who wished to see civilization go up in flames in the name of reducing carbon emissions. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who sought to get people killed and reduce buildings to rubble in the name of reducing carbon pollution. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who sought to reduce civilization to a wilderness in the name of complying with renewable energy mandates. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists who were unconcerned with preventing wildfires and concerned exclusively with contracting industrial and technological development down to zero. It was allowed to burn to the ground by environmentalists fixated on the dogma of man made global warming, in the face of a global climate record reaching back millennia which reveals the existence of global warming thousands of years before the onset of industrial activity, who threw wildfire plans to the winds and promoted climate goals fueled by a hatred of science, technology and human flourishing: "The Wall Street Journal reported Wednesday that Hawaiian Electric, the biggest power supplier in the state, focused on shifting to renewable energy sources to combat climate change, rather than spending money to address fire risk around its power lines. Earlier that day, John Podesta, a left wing stalwart who advises President Joe Biden on clean energy, took to the White House podium to blame climate change for the wildfire in Maui, which destroyed Lahaina and has likely killed hundreds of people. 'To stop these disasters from getting even worse, we have to cut the carbon pollution that is driving the climate crisis, and that's what the Inflation Reduction Act is all about,' Podesta said, using the disaster to promote Biden's law on its first anniversary. But a cause of the fire is still unknown, and the San Francisco Chronicle has reported that the fire was fueled by alien, invasive grass species that have come to dominate the local landscape, and which burned quickly in winds fed by an offshore hurricane. The Journal reported that suspicion is rapidly focusing on Hawaiian Electric's power lines, which are suspended from telephone poles, many of which were downed in the wind, and some of which were seen sparking in the hours before the wildfire spread. Moreover, the Journal noted that Hawaiian Electric had taken note of similar risks in California's recent wildfires, but had yet to devote significant resources to addressing the problem. Instead, it focused on complying with state green energy mandates: 'Since [California power company Pacific Gas and Electric]'s bankruptcy, Hawaiian Electric has made reference in regulatory filings to the risks of power line fires, but it waited years to take significant action, documents and interviews show. During that period, the company was undertaking a state mandated shift to renewable energy. In filings over the next two years with the Hawaii Public Utilities Commission, which is tasked with approving utility projects and spending, the company made only passing reference to wildfire mitigation. Former regulators and energy company officials said the utility was focused at that time on procuring renewable energy. The company had plans to spend nearly $200 million on wildfire mitigation measures on Maui, the Journal reported, but instead had spent less than $245,000. The wildfire plan was stalled by bureaucracy; in the interim, the company focused on climate goals." (Hawaiian Electric Focused On Climate Change, Neglected Wildfire Risk by Joel Pollak). A wildfire is a spectacle of terror. Exploding in color, heat and intensity, it blazes a path of mass destruction. It is place like hell and is a setting for the dead. On August 8, 2023, in the state of Hawaii, a tree fell on a power line. There was a flash of light, a drop in power, and an inferno commenced. Driven by hatred of man and his products, his science, progress and rational power, the environmentalists in control of Hawaii turned off the sirens, turned off the water hoses, and let civilization burn.

GERMANY'S FREEDOM FIGHTERS ATTACKED BY COMMUNISTS

A hospital is a healthcare institution which provides treatment for the sick and the injured. Hospitals have facilities known as emergency wards which provide treatment for urgent health problems. Emergency wards operate twenty four hours a day and receive patients without appointment who have been brought in by ambulances. Today Germany's emergency wards are filled to overflowing with members of a political party which has confronted the establishment with the trumpet blasts of freedom. Established in 2013, the Alternative for Germany stands for everything the establishment hates, and hates with a passion which knows no bounds, and hates because the mob which voted the establishment into power hates it and seeks its destruction. Founded by members of the Christian Democratic Party who split from the party over its establishment platform of welfare statism, mass immigration, antienlightenment and antiliberal order, the Alternative for Germany is the pariah of the nation. The party has been in the cross hairs of the establishment since its fouding and the establishment's leadership, from the president of Germany on down, seeks to ban it, to drum it out of society, and to beat its members to a bloody pulp. The establishment hates the Alternative for Germany because it proclaims that the government is the servant and not the master of the people. Because it proclaims that a government tasked with the protection of life, liberty and property from enemies domestic and foreign, and tasked with nothing else, is the only moral type of government. Because it proclaims that a government which establishes statism and socialism to any degree and in any sense poses a mortal threat to the freedom of the people. Because it proclaims that the welfare state, a state which establishes a series of welfare entitlements funded by tax robbery, is a violation of fundamental rights. Because it proclaims that in a free society the role of the government is passive and not active. Because it proclaims that in a moral society, the individual is afforded the freedom to prosper and perfect himself as a rational agent. Because it proclaims that the only proper human morality is one which protects the right of the individual to live and work for himself and to flourish as a human person, and moral systems which reject this right, and mandate a life of service to the state on earth or service to God in heaven, possess no legitimacy. Because it proclaims that freedom has to be fought for by every person every day of the year and every minute of the day, lest it fall into the streets mortally wounded, drowned in a pool of blood, shot down by the voices of social justice and social responsibility. Because it proclaims that dreams of a Christian heaven and final millennium are dreams of a totalitarian nightmare and have no place in a free society. Because it proclaims that dreams of an all knowing, all seeing, all doing, infallible government are dreams of a totalitarian nightmare and have no place in a free society. Because it proclaims that the only moral state is a constitutional state which protects the life of free born persons. Because it proclaims that the only moral state is one which recognizes the rule of law, freedom of work, freedom of contract, freedom of enterprise, freedom of thought and speech, and the right of the people to choose their own leaders and enact their own laws, subject to the sole constraint that no leader elected and no law enacted may violate the rights and freedoms of the individual. Because it proclaims that a free society is opposed to communism in all its stripes and varieties, from class communism to race communism to gender communism, has disallowed activists and agitators of all colors and armbands, and has purged the peoples's galleries of the mobs and the gutters. Because it proclaims that a moral government is one based on reason, sanity, sound judgment and the belief that the right of the individual to prosper and perfect himself as a rational agent is inherent, indefeasible, inalienable, a right which no power can take away: "Government should serve its citizens, and not vice versa. Therefore, only lean government is good government. Government should merely provide a framework within which its citizens can thrive. A constant and often ideology driven expansion of government functions has reached financial and practical limitations, and is a threat to the fundamental rights of freedom of its citizens. Government has taken on too many tasks. There is a need to focus on four classic functions performed by government: domestic and foreign security, justice, foreign relations, and financial administration. All other functions require special justification. We want to examine to which extent current government functions can be performed by private or other institutions. Germany is faced with huge demographic challenges, which will require a new understanding of the role of government and its institutions. Fundamental to our political convictions is a view of humanity which seeks the opportunities offered by freedom, but which likewise is mindful of its challenges. We do not believe in promises contained in various ideologies, nor are we convinced of the emergence of a new and better mankind. We regard the philosophy of history which envisages the development of a superior individual human morality to be both presumptuous and dangerous. The evolution of history has not come to finality, but continues to deliver both surprising new twists and turns, and crises and catastrophes. History will thus never come to an end in the sense that politics will come to a standstill and the contest for the best political solutions will become superfluous. Freedom, stability and economic welfare need to be won and secured anew by each generation. A realistic political concept should always keep in mind the imperfection and uncertainty of its possible outcomes. It should take into account that no matter how shrewd the political actor, he can never gain complete knowledge of the conditions and possibilities of his actions. In many policy areas the established political parties claim that there are no alternatives due to factual constraints. We believe that this stance is a real threat to democracy and the constitutional state. We contend that the rule of law, the adherence to contracts and agreements, as well as democratic legitimization, take precedence over short sighted activism and the playing to the voter gallery in the run up to elections. As the party of good common sense, we count on the sound judgment and willingness of qualified citizens to step up and take responsibility. The guiding principle of our program is the fundamental conviction that the German people themselves, wherever possible, should be able to determine the run of political events." (Manifesto For Germany: Political Program Of The Alternative For Germany, afd.de). The establishment hates the Alternative for Germany because it condemns Islam as incompatible with the laws and values established by a free society. Because it condemns Islam as incompatible with the secular, humanist, liberal foundations of a civilized society. Because it condemns Islam's global jihad conducted against human rights and freedoms. Because it condemns Islam as a mortal danger to a state, a society, a legal system and a moral system founded upon reason. Because it condemns Islam as a religion, a culture, a court and an inquisition which burns dissenters in the flames of fanaticism and radicalization, worships at the altars of violence and terror, kills and maims innocent people under the banners of the Prophet, and has set up a separate nation which has declared war on the host and seeks the destruction of human social advancement: "The AfD pledges its unconditional support to the freedom of faith, worship and conscience. However, the freedom of worship has to take place within the limits of public laws, human rights and our value system. The AfD firmly opposes Islamic practice which is directed against our liberal-democratic constitutional order, our laws, and the humanist foundations of our culture. The legal provisions of the sharia are incompatible with our legal and value systems. This is well documented by the Cairo Declaration on Human Rights in Islam dated the 4th of August 1990, and which is of great importance to Islamic countries. Islam does not belong to Germany. Its expansion and the ever increasing number of Muslims in the country are viewed by the AfD as a danger to our state, our society, and our values. An Islam which neither respects nor refrains from being in conflict with our legal system, or that even lays claim to power as the only true religion, is incompatible with our legal system and our culture. Many Muslims live as law abiding and well integrated citizens amongst us, and are accepted and valued members of our society. However, the AfD demands that an end is put to the formation and increased segregation by parallel Islamic societies relying on courts with sharia laws. The AfD wishes to curb a trend towards religious radicalisation amongst Muslims, and these turning into violent Salafists or terrorists." (Manifesto For Germany: Political Program Of The Alternative For Germany, afd.de). The German establishment has declared war on the Alternative for Germany. Listen to to the president of the Federal Republic: "We all have it in our hands to put those who despise our democracy in their place." (Germany Considers Ban On The Far Right by James Jackson, The Telegraph, August 13, 2023, quoting President Frank Walter Steinmeier). Listen to the preminent voice of the establishment media: "Ban the enemies of the constitution! The AfD has become more and more radicalized. It’s time to defend democracy with better weapons." (Der Spiegel). Listen to the establishmen's henchmen: "Anyone who publicly runs for a fascist party stands for antihuman politics with his name. And this standing up for such a policy must have consequences in our eyes. If even one of the people presented stops doing politics out of fear, that’s good!" (antifa-frankfurt.org, August 11, 2023). Now look at the victims of the establishment's war. Look at Andreas Jurca, head of the Alternative for Germany in the Bavarian district of Augsburg and the local candidate for the state legislature elections. Lying in a hospital bed, he has a broken ankle, bruises covering his face and swollen black eyes. Commenting on his attack, he voices the liberal creed of the Alternative for Germany: "That’s exactly why I do politics. These are the people who want to lead us back into tyranny. There is no political justification for violence. If we live in a democracy, then we must also be able to endure that others have different opinions." Look at Frank Magnitz, member of the federal parliament and state chairman of the Bremen branch of the Alternative for Germany. Lying in a hospital bed, his head had been bludgeoned beyond recognition in an assassination attempt. Commenting on the attack, the Alternative for Germany's Facebook Bremen page exposes the establishment's bludgeoning of the liberal order: "Not only the left but also the Social Democrats and the Greens support Antifa and their attacks. Is that what the other political forces want? Is that your understanding of democracy? Again, the AfD is the focus for left attacks that are not condemned or are even supported by the other parties. Today is a black day for democracy in Germany." In Germany in the twenty first century, in every hospital emergency ward in the nation, freedom lies covered over in white sheets and is ready for burial. Struck down by the establishment, its last face was the Alternative for Germany.

ALFRED ROSENBERG, GOVERNOR OF CALIFORNIA

Time: October 16, 1946. Place: Nuremberg Prison, Nuremberg, Bavaria, Allied Occupied Germany. Inmate: Alfred Rosenberg, Fuhrer's Representative for the Supervision of Ideological Training of the NSDAP, and Reich Minister for the Occupied Eastern Territories. Cause of death: execution by hanging. Crimes: conspiracy to commit crimes against the peace, crimes of aggression, war crimes and crimes against humanity. The death of this prominent theorist of national socialism, whose book Myth Of The Twentieth Century was a foundational statement of this dark creed, in no sense betokened the death of the movement. For racism was not only the religion of the twentieth century but this variant of classic Marxism is the religion of the new millennium, and the spirit of Alfred Rosenberg stalks the world today wearing new faces and new guises, but lives among us peddling the same religion of tribalism, the same rejection of the Age of Enlightenment, which has composed the final chapter of Western civilization. Alfred Rosenberg, a ghost from the past, a monster of the present day, a ravenous jaw consuming liberal order, a neoMarxist race theorist who developed his master Marx's first attack on the Enlightenment made a century before in the reading rooms of the British Museum, has traveled down through the corridors of time and landed in every home, school, office and enterprise in the West. In the state of California, in a land nicknamed the Golden State for the limitless possibilities for freedom it once offered, the Alfred Rosenberg gray eminence has been elected gauleiter of ideological training and has assumed control over the state's school system. This power, this decision maker, this behind the scenes wirepuller has donned a mask painted diversity, equity and inclusion and established a neoMarxist, neoHitlerite, neoswastika curriculum of race and gender for every classroom in the state. On July 12, 2023, the California State Board of Education voted to install a race and gender national socialist idol on a throne with a long name and sent the state's schools plunging into worldwide opprobrium. The long name is Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools: Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve and it mandates that teachers and administrators align the classroom with the tenets of a new race and gender philosophy and make the spirit of Rosenberg the new myth, the new dogma and the new theology of the state. Listen to this race and gender iteration of Mein Kampf and hear the funeral bells toll for the Enlightenment order of the West. Listen to the second edition of Rosenberg's Myth Of The Twentieth Century, the new edition for the twenty first century, and hear it proclaim that the number of female, hispanic and black students enrolled and graduating in science, technology and mathematics courses must represent the percentages of these groups in the population, and accordingly standards must be lowered for these groups: "At the higher education level, there are longstanding gaps among student groups in STEM [Science, Engineering, Technology and Mathematics] enrollment and completion. While the number of female, Latino, and African American students enrolled in STEM fields in California's public higher education system has grown over the past decade, a 2019 report found that 'both nationally and in California, female and underrepresented minority (URM) students are underrepresented in STEM overall and are highly underrepresented in particular STEM fields, including engineering and computer science' (California Education Learning Lab, 2019). The report found that in the UC system in 2016-17, African American students and Latino students accounted for only 1.3 percent and 15 percent, respectively, of bachelor's degrees in STEM fields. In the CSU system, African Americans students accounted for only 2 percent and Latino students accounted for only 27 percent of bachelor's degrees in STEM fields. (California Education Learning Lab, 2019)." (Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools: Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve, Chapter Two). Listen to the Mathematics Framework proclaim that nonwhite students do not perform as well as white students in mathematics because of the racist school system and not because they do not work as hard, and they must in consequence be given preferential treatment and educational standards must be lowered for them: "This evidence makes clear that, on average across the state, the opportunities being provided and the approaches being employed in TK–12 classrooms, schools, and districts are not resulting in equitable student mathematics success. Across their TK–12 years, students in California and across the country experience differences in opportunities to learn associated with the quality of curriculum and teaching they encounter. These differences begin early and are too often related to racial and economic inequalities in school resources. These opportunity gaps impact student outcomes differentially." (Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools: Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve, Chapter Two). Listen to the Mathematics Framework proclaim that it is not fair or equitable that mathematics students be treated the same without regard to race or gender, and fairness and equity demand that students be treated in accordance with their racial and gender identities, and that female and nonwhite students be granted preferential treatment and be the beneficiaries of lower educational standards: "While circumstances outside of school influence equity and social mobility, the National Council of Supervisors of Mathematics (NCSM) and its affiliate organization, TODOS: Mathematics for All, point to data showing that school systems play a role in helping to correct the current state of math education, increase equity, and ensure the highest quality mathematics teaching and learning. These mathematics leaders assert that equitable opportunities and outcomes for all students require systemic change. Educators at all levels need to take action to challenge deficit thinking, draw on—rather than exclude—students' identities and cultural backgrounds, and create classrooms that foster active instead of passive learning experiences." (Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools: Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve, Chapter Two). Listen to the Mathematics Framework proclaim that the mathematics classroom must reflect the race and gender composition of the population. Listen to it proclaim that mathematics instruction must be political instruction promoting race and gender ideologies. Listen to it proclaim that mathematics teachers must lower educational standards in order to allow unqualified women and nonwhites to pass. Listen to it proclaim that schools must discriminate against whites and males and prevent them from dominating mathematics classes: "California's diverse student population brings to schools a broad range of interests, experiences, and cultural assets. Cultural and personal relevance is important for learning and also for creating mathematical communities that reflect California's diversity. Educators can learn to notice, utilize, and value students' identities, assets, and cultural resources to support learning for all students. Additionally, because culture and language can be intertwined, attending to cultural relevance may also enable teachers to attend to linguistic diversity–a key feature of California and relevant to the teaching and learning of mathematics." (Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools: Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve, Chapter Two). Listen to the Mathematics Framework proclaim that the purpose of mathematics instruction is to effect political change. Listen to it proclaim that training in mathematics is training in the arts of revolution and subversion. Listen to it proclaim that the teaching of mathematics involves the promotion of violence. Listen to it proclaim that the best mathematics thinkers are ideological thinkers. Listen to it proclaim that progressive mathematics is a program of tub thumping and street agitation which has declared war on constitutional government under the perennial banners of the mob, the banners marked social justice: "Mathematics is a tool that can be used to both understand and impact the world. But too often students believe mathematics is not for them. Research shows that social and cultural contexts play a role in learners' sense of belonging in mathematics classrooms. Additionally, learning environments enable or hinder whether and how students see themselves as doers of mathematics who believe that mathematics has a role in their lives. Both mathematics educators and mathematics education researchers argue that teaching toward social justice can play an important role in shifting students' perspectives on mathematics as well as their sense of belonging as mathematics thinkers. This framework discusses teaching toward social justice in two parts. First, it involves creating opportunities for students to both see themselves, as well as people from all backgrounds, as capable and successful doers of mathematics. Second, teaching toward social justice urges educators to empower learners with tools to examine inequities and address important issues in their lives and communities through mathematics." (Mathematics Framework for California Public Schools: Kindergarten Through Grade Twelve, Chapter Two). On July 14, 1941, Adolf Hitler created the Reich Ministry for the Occupied Eastern Territories and appointed Alfred Rosenberg as its head. Hitler created the ministry to control the areas captured by the Wehrmacht in Eastern Europe and Russia. Eighty years after the dissolution of the Reich Ministry and the death of Rosenberg, both have returned to life and are back in business. Appearing as an international communist movement peddling gender, race and class politics, a new Third Reich has captured the state of California and created a ministry of control headed by a ghost from the past.

THE COMMUNIST EMERGENCY FUND

World Federation of Democratic Youth. International Union of Students. World Federation of Trade Unions. Women's International Democratic Federation. World Peace Council. World Federation of Scientific Workers. International Organization of Journalists. American Student Union. World Federation of Teachers' Unions. The governing Popular Front coalitions active across Europe in the 1930s. The list is endless, relentless and terrifying. Springing out of the pages of Vladimir Lenin's What Is To Be Done?, the communist front was a vital component of the Communist Bloc's war to conquer the West. Its necessity was explained by Lenin in his dark manifesto: "Since the Communist Party is illegal in Russia, I propose to reach the masses through a large number of other organizations intended for wide membership, and which therefore can be as loose and as public as possible." The communist front: an organization during the Cold War under the control of the Soviet Union, which attracted people who were not party members but followed the party line and were fellow travelers. The communist front: a mass organization dedicated to revolution and subversion whose ranks were filled with artists, intellectuals, teachers, journalists, lawyers, scientists and doctors, united in a passionate hatred of the Age of Enlightenment and the liberal order it created for the world. The end of the Cold War brought the end of communist front organizations controlled by the Soviets but not an end to communist organizations as such. They have continued to exist and to multiply in the twenty first century, fed by the wood stacks of antireason, the coal blocks of mobocracy, the petroleum deposits of far left activism and the uranium mines of gender, race and class politics. Their aims and methods have remained the same as the originals and they have continued the criminality but with new names, new faces, new characters and new plots. The aims: violence and destruction. The methods: violence and destruction. The tactics: violence and destruction. The ideology: violence and destruction. The philosophy: violence and destruction. The religion: violence and destruction. So it was when Satan's voice of a mind disturbed, feverish and out of control was first transcribed by his student Karl Marx in the nineteenth century, and so it is now two centuries later, in Marxism's variant and offshoot organizations. So it is now in Marxism's Climate Emergency Fund, founded in 2019 by wealthy, aristocratic, blue blood, establishment communists Aileen Getty and Rory Kennedy, funded by the nation's leaders of communist wealth and power, such as Adam McKay and Hillary Clinton, and dedicated to continuing the establishment's communist war against civilization, now deploying green movement guns manufactured in communism's environmentalist munitions factories. Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund promote a dogma unfounded in science. This is the dogma of human induced climate change brought about by greenhouse gas emissions. Science has established that in the history of the planet, there has been no correlation between greenhouse gas levels in the atmosphere and global temperatures: "Current levels of carbon dioxide concentration in the environment are substantially lower than they have been during earlier periods in the planet’s history. Without human intervention, the concentration of CO2 has climbed as high as 7,000 parts per million (ppm) in prior eras, whereas at present the concentration is just over 400 ppm." (Arnold Schwarzenegger Laments ‘No One Gives a Shit’ About Climate Change by Thomas Williams). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence as "disruptive climate activism": "We support disruptive climate activism, because we believe it is the fastest way to create transformative change." (climateemergencyfund.org). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence as "actions executed" and "people mobilized": "Since our founding in 2019: 112 organizations funded. Over 30,000 climate activists trained. Over 50,000 press hits generated. So far in 2023: 27 organizations funded. Over 1,000 actions executed. Over 130,000 people mobilized." (climateemergencyfund.org). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence in the words disrupt normalcy and transformation at emergency speed and in the rejection of "gradualism" or peaceful change: "Gradualism has failed. But activism works. We support the organizations who tell the truth, disrupt normalcy, and demand transformation at emergency speed." (climateemergencyfund.org). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence as a form of "tremendous pressure": Disruptive activism wakes up the public and puts tremendous pressure on policy makers." (climateemergencyfund.org). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence as the fastest way to create transformative change. Listen to it advocate violence as a command of history and a command of science: "We are already experiencing catastrophic climate impacts, and they are accelerating. Governments globally are not treating the climate crisis as an emergency. The media are not covering the climate crisis as an emergency. Institutions like businesses, universities, and hospitals are not treating the climate crisis as an emergency. History and social science demonstrate that disruptive activist is one of the fastest way to create transformative change." (climateemergencyfund.org). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence as the only effective way to achieve social change: "The media ignore the vast majority of climate activism. Only disruption breaks through." (climateemergencyfund.org). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence as cost effective. Listen to it advocate violence as necessary pressure to force lawmakers to enact communism. Listen to it advocate violence as the most impactful policy imaginable. Listen to it advocate violence as the only effective way to remove greenhouse emissions, private jets, internal combusion engines, oil and gas hookups, and in a word, to remove civilization, from the planet. Listen to it advocate violence as direct, active and attention grabbing. Listen to it advocate violence as bold, brave, beautiful, meaningful, inspirational, visionary, philantropic, life affirming and the only path by which mankind can prosper and flourish: "Analyzing the effects of activist movements leading up to recent US climate legislation, researchers at Giving Green calculate that in the United States every 'dollar spent on activism could remove more than six metric tons of CO2' (or CO2 equivalent). When conditions are right to connect activism to policy, Giving Green's research suggests that well targeted activism could be among the most cost effective climate strategies. Without activism, it is unlikely we would have seen transformative climate bills such as the Inflation Reduction Act. Anecdotal evidence supports this claim. Bill Gates cited the role that protesters funded by Climate Emergency Fund played in Joe Manchin's decision to support the Inflation Reduction Act in an interview with Bloomberg. He described the pressure the these protesters put on Manchin saying 'The last six months have been challenging, even just getting in his car and trying to live a normal life.' Ultimately, Senator Manchin cast the critical vote to ensure the passage of the Inflation Reduction Act. There are numerous other examples of activists supported by Climate Emergency Fund winning concrete, impactful policy. Spain has banned factory farms, Washington DC has banned gas hookups in new construction, and Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport moved to ban private jets. These examples show why donors looking to maximize the value of their climate giving would do well to invest in activism. Climate Emergency Fund translates this truth into meaningful climate action with a bold approach to philanthropy. Climate Emergency Fund makes strategic investments in emerging and agile organizations that confront the climate emergency with the urgency and scale this global crisis demands through protest, direct action, and attention grabbing media campaigns. Along with Climate Emergency Fund, a cohort of visionary philanthropists is helping the climate emergency movement grow by funding high impact activism that demands bolder, faster action from government and industry and inspires hope for a future in which humanity thrives on our beautiful planet. We invite you to be a part of this life affirming movement." (climateemergencyfund.org). Listen to the Climate Emergency Fund advocate violence as the only way to deal with a climate emergency. Listen to it advocate violence as a progressive form of communication and conversation. Listen to it advocate violence as a liberating voice of extinction and rebellion directed against the black clouds formed by technological progress. Listen to it advocate violence as a necessary strike against the tyranny imposed by reason and enlightenment. Listen to it advocate violence as ushering in new dawn of primitive existence centered on Mother Earth. Listen to it advocate violence as an expression of youthful skill, idealism, ambition and the struggle for clean air and a liveable planet free of human intrusion: "Philanthropy has a crucial role to play in growing the climate emergency movement. Extinction Rebellion, the Sunrise Movement, and the Youth Climate Strikes brought the climate crisis into public conversation in 2019 and sparked an exciting shift in the climate movement. Since then an increasing number of young and ambitious organizations have emerged. These agile groups recognize the impediments that limit Big Green institutions' ability to act with the speed required to address our climate crisis. A new climate movement is rising." (climateemergencyfund.org). The Brownshirts: the paramilitary wing of the German National Socialist Party, active from 1920 to 1945, spreading fear and intimidation through violence in the streets. The Red Guards: a paramilitary movement founded by Chinese leader Mao Zedong in 1966. Its purpose was to communize at the point of a gun every square centimeter of China, the West, the Earth and the universe: "Chairman Mao has defined our future as an armed revolutionary youth organization. So if Chairman Mao is our Red Commander in Chief and we are his Red Guards, who can stop us? First we will make China Maoist from inside out and then we will help the working people of other countries make the world red and then the whole universe." (China's Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution: Master Narratives And Post Mao Counternarratives by Woei Lien Chong). The brown colored and red colored batons of Marxist violence have been recolored green and passed on to the Climate Emergency Fund at the end of the age.

COMMUNIST STORM RAINS DOWN ON IRELAND

It is called the Emerald Isle because of its vast, uninterrupted greenery. Its countryside is dotted with farms and parks and its landscape, in all of its counties, boasts the greenest hills on Earth. It is celebrated in the world famous 1795 poem Erin by William Drennan, in which the phrase Emerald Isle first appears: "Arm of Erin! prove strong, but be gentle as brave/And uplifted to strike, still be ready to save,/Nor one feeling of vengeance presume to defile/The cause or the men of Emerald Isle." The green fields of Irish freedom and valor celebrated in this poem, shining like a jewel in the sea, have been upturned and buried in dirt in the twenty first century as this once proud island has been consumed in a vortex of mob politics, which has brought forth the night creature of communism. The decline and fall of light filled free Ireland into the gloom of political tyranny has mirrored the decline and fall of nations throughout the West, and serves as an alarm bell in the night of the imminent end of civilization. Communism had to strike Ireland, as the natural, logical and inevitable development of cultural degeneration, but when it did, the fall was as tragic as could be, as it pushed into a black tar pit, from which it cannot escape, an island fortress which for a thousand years had sceptered and enthroned English liberty. Look at Ireland today and see a shadow of its former self and a dark zone oppressed by Marxism in all its thundering storms of gender, race and class politics. See cities engulfed in Black Lives Matter riots, condemn capitalism as a system of racism and discrimination against blacks, demand the establishment of a black communist dictatorship, and shout Fuck you! at the police. See liberal democracy condemned as a system of white privilege. See activists of gender ideology, which promotes feminist power, set fire to the houses of constitutional government. See the promotion of critical race theory, which proclaims that progressive political theory is black racist theory which is critical and condemnatory of capitalism. See capitalism condemned as a system of profits before people. See capitalism condemned as a system of racism. See capitalism condemned as a system of ruthless colonialist exploitation. See capitalism condemned as the merciless lash of the slave holding Southern Confederacy: "In Ireland today, People Before Profit called on local authorities in Galway to remove monuments, which the party claims glorify slavery and racism. It wants a monument to Christopher Columbus in Galway to be taken down and it is also seeking the removal of a plaque in Tuam, honoring Major Richard (Dick) Dowling, who served with the Confederate army in the US." (RTE report, 2020). Look at Ireland today and see the Gender Recognition Act of 2015, which allows people who seek to defy the facts of reality, who seek to deny the reality of sex chromosomes discovered over a century ago, and who proclaim that they have changed their gender, to have their preferred gender recognized by the state. See freedom of speech sacrificed on the altar of the common good. See the proclamation that progressive legislation deprives people of their rights and does not protect people's rights. See the proclamation that a progressive society outlaws speech which causes gender, race and class Marxists to feel pain, panic, unease, irritation, discomfort, fear, trembling and anxiety. See the proclamation that those who champion liberalism, capitalism, individual rights, nonpartisan science, and public discussion uncensored by the blue pencils of political correctness are the voices of bigotry, hatred and intolerance. See the proclamation that since communists cannot live in peace and coexist with anticommunists, the latter must be silenced and eliminated. See anticommunist speech condemned as incitement to hatred and violence. See the proclamation that speech which violates the strictures of political correctness must be prohibited. Such speech includes criticism of Islamist theocracy, radical feminism, doomsday environmentalism, cultural relativism, and the religion of transgenderism, which proclaims that sex chromosomes do not exist and people can change into any gender they wish, or into no gender at all, or into multiple genders at one and the same time. See the proclamation that speech which condemns communism as a system of genocide, mass murder, war crimes, crimes against humanity and crimes against peace must criminalized. See the proclamation that speech which condemns capitalism as a system of genocide, mass murder, war crimes, crimes against humanity and crimes against peace must be mandated. See the proclamation that the voices of dissent against far left dogmas must be targeted for permanent cancellation. See the proclamation that a progressive prosecution service prohibits the expression of points of view inimical to the advancement of Marxism. See the proclamation that a progressive society is an out of control democracy which has incinerated reason, truth, science and morality in the furnaces of communist majority rule. See the proclamation that a progressive society is ruled by red guard street gangs and social media mobs which have prevented a free and open exchange of ideas and opinions and outlawed the respect for human rights which distinguishes civilized societies from uncivilized societies: "Impending hate speech legislation is about 'restricting freedom' for the 'common good', the chairwoman of the Irish Green Party said this week. Appearing before the Irish Senate (Seanad) this week, Green Party chairwoman Pauline O'Reilly admitted that the intention of proposed legislation to further curtail speech in Emerald Isle is intended to 'restrict freedom', but in an Orwellian turn attempted to convince the public that this would somehow be in their interests. 'When one thinks about it, all law and all legislation is about the restriction of freedom. This is exactly what we are doing here. We are restricting freedom but we are doing it for the common good,' Senator O'Reilly said. 'Throughout our Constitution one can see that while one has rights they are restricted for the common good. Everything needs to be balanced. If a person's views on other people's identities make their lives unsafe and insecure, and cause them such deep discomfort that they cannot live in peace, our job as legislators is to restrict those freedoms for the common good. Social media have fueled hatred but it has also put on display for all of us the dirty, filthy, underbelly of hatred in Irish society. That hatred has always existed.' The Criminal Justice (Incitement to Violence or Hatred and Hate Offenses) Bill 2022, which is still being debated by Irish lawmakers, has become highly controversial, with Twitter chief Elon Musk recently branding the bill as a 'massive attack against freedom of speech'. The legislation would criminalize large swaths of speech, including 'incitement to violence or hatred against' against people with 'protected characteristics', as well as 'condoning, denying or grossly trivializing genocide, war crimes, crimes against humanity and crimes against peace.' The hate speech law would also controversially allow the government to jail citizens for merely possessing supposedly offensive material. Under the current form of the bill, anyone found in possession of socalled hateful material would be subject to up to one year in prison. Speaking against the bill, Senator Ronan Mullen warned that the legislation would curtail free speech and be used as a weapon to target political dissent. 'We are in a society dominated by cancel culture where people are frequently accused of being haters for expressing points of view that are not hate but simply robust expressions of opinion,' Mullen said. 'When the social media mob is on the rampage, the Garda and the prosecution service will have little choice but to pursue the Graham Linehans and JK Rowlings of Irish society for robustly expressing their points of view.' The independent senator went on to say: 'Freedom of expression is a fundamental human right. Without it, there is no free exchange of ideas at all levels within society. In short, there is no democracy. That is why we use the term fundamental.' " (Hate Speech Law To 'Restrict Freedom' For The 'Common Good', Claims Irish Senator by Kurt Zindulka). Look at Ireland today and see the political class violate the separation between church and state which defines liberal societies, and establish an official religion. See lawmakers proclaim that gender has nothing whatever to do with the facts of reality and there exists no biological definition of male and female. See politicians proclaim that gender is determined by human choice and human culture and psychotics who believe they are members of the opposite sex, who feel they are members of the opposite sex and who claim they are members of the opposite sex, are in fact members of the opposite sex, and must be treated under the law as members of the opposite sex: "Footage has emerged online of a high profile progressive lawmaker struggling to define exactly what a woman is. Eoin O Broin, a senior official and MP within Ireland's progressive leaning Sinn Fein party, has been videoed struggling to give a definition of what exactly a woman is. According to a report by Gript Media, such a trend of lawmakers being stumped by the concept of a woman appears to have drifted across the Irish sea, with O Broin left struggling to define the term when confronted by women's rights activists. 'What is a woman?' one activist asked. The question evoked a momentary silence from the politician, who stared into the camera for a number of seconds before eventually giving an answer. O Broin eventually replied by saying that he believes that 'gender identity is culture', adding that he thinks that transgender males should be recognized as being women." (Progressive Lawmaker Stumbles When Asked What A Woman Is by Peter Caddle). Freedom was suffused in the Irish soil for a thousand years. It was brought by the Norseman of the Viking Age which commenced in the eighth century. It was protected by the High King of Ireland who assumed power in the ninth century. It was enshrined in the Magna Carta Hibernia, a copy of the British Magna Carta, established for the island in 1217. In the twenty first century, a vortex struck this hallowed land, fueled by the forces of mob rule. It was the vortex of communism; it drew out the air; and it suffocated the lives of the people for all time to come.

GERMANY'S COMMUNISTS RESTART THE HOLOCAUST

Time: January 30, 1933. Place: Germany. Adolf Hitler assumes office as chancellor of the nation and casts a terrifying shadow across the land. It is the shadow of communist class war dressed up under the guise of national socialism and its war against capitalism has added antisemitism to its arsenal. Taken out of its original Christian context, Jew hatred in Germany under Hitler has been transformed into communist class hatred and the Jews have become the symbols of the liberal capitalist age of Enlightenment, which the communist master Karl Marx hated with a passion which knew no bounds. Eighty years after the fall of the Third Reich which buried Germany in ruins, the nation's communists, class warriors and Marxist Jew haters are back in power and have restarted Hitler's campaign to eradicate the Jews. Today's war against the Jews in Germany is a revival of the Third Reich's war in every respect, down to the coalitions, fronts and friendships forged in pursuit of a common cause. During the Third Reich, Hitler reached out to Islam and saw in it a useful ally in his program of extermination: "The reason why the Third Reich has an interest in the Arabs is that we are jointly fighting the Jews. This led him [Khalid Al Hud, envoy of Saudi Arabian King Ibn Saud] to discuss Palestine and the conditions there, and he then stated that he himself would not rest until the last Jew had left Germany. Khalid Al Hud observed that the Prophet Mohammed had acted the same way. He had driven the Jews out of Arabia." (The Arabs And The Holocaust by Gilbert Ashcar, quoting Hitler). Today's war against the Jews in Germany is a repeat performance of the original tragedy, with only the names and dates changed; the fundamental characters have remained the same. The Third Reich's Holocaust received standing ovations from communists throughout the world. Communists defended the Holocaust as a war of extermination against capitalists: "Finance capital and the banks, the hard core of the system of imperialism and capitalism, turned the hatred of people against money, exploitation and the Jews. Auschwitz meant that six million Jews were killed and thrown into the waste heap of Europe because of what they were: money Jews." (Ulrike Meinhof, founder of the communist terror organization, Red Army Faction). Communists in Germany have demanded an encore of the Holocaust and an encore has been staged in the new millennium. Encore. Germany's Jews are under attack by Marxists and Islamists bearing rifles and lashes. They are under attack by the blazing heat of the Red Crescent, whose hate crimes are denied and concealed by Germany's political correctness police. They are under attack by a conflagration reignited by domestic communists and their Muslim immigrant allies: "As Germany has welcomed millions of immigrants from the Middle East and beyond, some have brought along antisemitic ideology, and Germany's government has been accused of underreporting their overt acts of antisemitism to avoid claims of antiIslamic sentiment. In one surreal incident that underlined the problem, a nineteen year old Syrian asylum seeker in 2018 assaulted a nonJewish Arab Israeli on a Berlin street. The Israeli man had put on a kippah as an experiment meant to refute reports of antisemitism in Germany. The assailant hit him with a belt while shouting antisemitic insults in Arabic. Germany saw 2,032 documented antisemitic incidents in 2019, according to government figures. That was the highest tally since 2001 and a thirteen percent increase over 2018. The government attributes ninety percent of the incidents to the far right, but critics of its documentation practices say many of the attacks are actually carried out by Muslim immigrants who have struggled to integrate economically." (In Germany, The Rise Of Antisemitism And Other Extremism Has Jews Questioning Their Future by Cnaan Lipshiz). Encore. Germany's Jews are under attack by a joint force of domestic reds and local proxies of Iran. They are under attack by communist red guards and Iranian revolutionary guards, who have riddled Jewish homes and synagogues with bullet holes. They are under attack by an advancing juggernaut of antisemitism, whose engines are stoked by Marxists and Muslims, and no Jew now is safe, and a revolution to kill Jews has been revived from the Third Reich, and has returned to haunt every home, school, office, train, bus, supermarket and concert hall in the land: "In Western Germany last November, there was a violent incident of shooting at a rabbi's house next to his synagogue in the city of Essen. German federal prosecutors are still investigating this incident along with two other violent antisemitic crime cases likely to have been carried out by the Iranian Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC), with the aid of local collaborators. Most incidents occur essentially in everyday situations in which Jews are confronted with antisemitism. Such incidents take place anywhere from work to home, in public transport, at the supermarket, or at a concert. Often, it includes remarks that trivialize the Holocaust." (Jew Hate In Germany by Joseph Puder). Encore. Germany's Jews are under attack by Arab Muslim migrants and their communist allies. They are under attack by stormtroopers colored red, green, radical and Islamist. They are under attack by left wing extremists and fanatical jihadists intent on destroying the state of Israel. They are under attack by Red Star and Red Crescent inciters of hatred and violence. They are under attack by Marxist and Islamist engines of vilification and defamation. They are under attack by a new national socialist extermination machine painted Marxist and Islamist, determined to transform Germany into a hell on Earth. AntiIsrael, antiJewish, proMarxist and proIslamist, a new force has arisen in Germany which has revived the ghosts of the Third Reich's German-Muslim axis. Its crimes against the Jews have been ignored, excused and downplayed by Germany's establishment in the final ignominious act of the postwar Federal Republic. This act is entitled The Persecution Of The Jews And The Denial Of Fundamental Rights: "The Arab Muslim migrants in Germany pose a serious threat to the Jewish community in Germany, and the Jewish leadership in Germany has acknowledged that. The left wing media in Germany, just like its counterpart in the US, would blame every evil manifestation, and virtually all antisemitic acts in Germany on the AfD, or 'right wing extremists.' The left in Germany for its part, is actually excusing the violence perpetrated by the Muslim migrants, and the Red-Green (leftist radicals and Muslim radical) alliance is dangerously antiIsrael and antiJewish. Last May, a German court in the north German town of Ploen, acquitted a Thai German microbiologist named Sucharit Bhakdi of incitement to hatred for comments he made about Jews and Israel. The Court resolved that the comments, including the statement that described Israel as 'worse than Nazi Germany,' did not amount to spreading antisemitic hatred toward Jews. He merely criticized the Israeli government and its policies. In a 2021 video published online, Bhakdi said that 'the terrible thing about

Jews is: they learn well,' and he described Israel as a 'living hell.' The Court concluded, however, that it couldn't determine without reasonable doubt that Bhakdi had been spreading antisemitic hatred. The European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (FRA) resolved that antisemitism includes drawing analogies to the nazis (as Bhakdi did), declaring Israel to be a racist, and thus an illegitimate endeavor, holding it to standards expected of no other democratic state, and holding Jews collectively responsible for Israel's actions." (Jew Hate In Germany by Joseph Puder). Encore. Germany's Jews are under attack by radicals of the Marxist and Muslim faiths. They are under attack by Marxist and Muslim religious groups preaching hate. They are under attack by the Marxist and Muslim peddlers of high temperature delusions who see Jewish capitalist backstabbers and conspirators in control of the world. They are under attack by the denizens of malarial swamps filled with Marxist and Muslim bloodsuckers who have spread a mental fever across the land. They are under attack by new forces of prejudice streaming in from Eastern wastelands, joined by communists in classrooms at home, who together have restarted Hitler's gas chambers: "The report found 'on average, people of Muslim faith show significantly higher agreement values [with antisemitic beliefs] than Christians and nondenominational people'. Three times as many Muslims would agree that Jewish people are 'sneaky'. it said its research discovered, and four times as many said Israel should not be a state. The greatest differentiation was on the question of whether 'rich Jews are the actual rulers of the world', where over four times as many agreed among the Muslim cohort, taking the figure to twenty six per cent—over a quarter—saying they believed the antisemitic claim. These findings were in line with other similar studies, the report asserted. As for why Muslims might hold these views, the paper was more circumspect, saying the reasons 'can be complex' and as 'diverse as the groups themselves'. The conclusion suggested the views may be indicative of higher levels of antisemitic views in 'their countries of origin' and that further research, taking into account 'socialization, life experience and region of origin could contribute'. The findings of this report underlines how, after decades of aggressively stamping out antisemitic ideas after the Second World War, Germany appears to be importing antisemitic ideas from abroad. These new figures will go some way to support the real life experience of those living in Germany who say they see antisemitism rising." (Antisemitic Attitudes In Germany by Dominik Hirndorf, Konrad Adenauer Foundation). Time: 1944. Place: German occupied Poland. Millions of Jews arrive at the Auschwitz concentration camp and are murdered in gas chambers. Eighty years after the end of the Holocaust, the poison of Jew hatred has again filled the air in Germany. Pumped in by a Red Star-Red Crescent alliance of Marxists and Islamists, this substance of death stalks the land.

AUGUST 6, 2023: BIRTHDAY OF AN ART ASSASSIN

He was born on August 6, 1928 and would have celebrated his ninety fifth birthday on August 6, 2023. Calling himself an "antiartist", he made serial prints of shoes, boxes and jet set celebrities. Seeking the "reproduction of the everyday", he painted serial pictures of dollar bills, Elvis Presley, Coca Cola bottles and typewriters, and called these pictures art. He produced films characterized by nonplots and nonstories. He produced records by the band Velvet Underground characterized by nonmelodies and noise. He made serial prints entitled Campbell Soup Cans, serial prints of Chinese mass murderer Mao Zedong and Cuban mass murderer Che Guevara, and became world famous and the founder of the Pop Art movement, and was hailed as the Pope and Prince of Pop. His silk screen, photographic portrait of Marilyn Monroe, entitled Shot Sage Blue Marilyn, was sold for 195 million dollars at Christie's auction house in 2022 and was the most expensive piece of twentieth century art ever sold. He painted and printed photographs awash with urine: "Victor was Andy's ghost pisser on the Oxidations. He would come to the Factory to urinate on canvases that had already been primed with copper based paint by

Andy or Ronnie Cutrone, a second ghost pisser much appreciated by Andy, who said that the vitamin B that Ronnie took made a prettier color when the acid in the urine turned the copper green. Did Andy ever use his own urine? My diary shows that when he first began the series, in December 1977, he did, and there were many others: boys who'd come to lunch and drink too much wine, and find it funny or even flattering to be asked to help Andy 'paint'. Andy always had a little extra bounce in his walk as he led them to his studio." (Holy Terror: Andy Warhol Close Up by Bob Colacello). He mass produced photographs and called them paintings, mass produced nonaction on celluloid and called the productions films, and called his place of manufacturing and automation the Factory and the Art Producing Machine. He painted and printed supermarket merchandise and called it art. He called supermarket merchandise itself works of art and likened supermarkets to art museums. He called commercial advertising and magazine illustrations works of art. He denied the distinction between art and photography, projected nonart as art, nonartistic thinking as artistic thinking, and launched a revolution of destruction and denial of the creative, artistic, beautifying spirit of man: "Warhol's favorite printmaking technique at the time was silkscreen. It came closest to his idea of proliferation of art. Apart from being an Art Producing Machine, the Factory served as a filmmaking studio. Warhol made over 300 experimental underground films. His first one was called Sleep and showed nothing else but a man sleeping over six hours. A pivotal event was the 1964 exhibit The American Supermarket, a show held in Paul Bianchini's Upper East Side gallery. The show was presented as a typical small supermarket environment, except that everything in it (the produce, canned goods, meat, posters on the wall, etc) was created by six prominent pop artists of the time, including the controversial (and like minded) Billy Apple, Mary Inman, and Robert Watts. Warhol's painting of a can of Campbell's soup cost $1,500, while each autographed can sold for $6. The exhibit was one of the first mass events that directly confronted the general public with both Pop Art and the perennial question of what is art. The quintessence of Andy Warhol's skill was his ability to remove the difference between fine arts and the commercial arts used for magazine illustrations, comic books, record albums or advertising campaigns. Warhol once expressed his philosophy in one poignant sentence: 'When you think about it, department stores are kind of like museums.' In minimizing the role of his own hand in the production of his work, Warhol sparked a revolution in art thinking, and thus his work quickly became very controversial and more popular." (Andy Warhol, Pop Artist by Charles Moffat). He reproduced images of popular culture and called it avantgarde art. He reproduced images of famous people and called it avantgarde art. He produced commercial illustrations and called it avantgarde art. He produced silkscreens of Elizabeth Taylor and Brillo boxes and called it avantgarde art. He created films in which nothing happens and called it avantgarde art. He reproduced the figures, symbols and shibboleths of communist revolution and printed in living, vivid colors the emblems of the Soviet Union, international class war and the destruction of civilization, and called it avantgarde art: "The 1960s is perhaps the most significant decade in Warhol’s career, as he left the world of commercial illustration to commit himself to avantgarde art full time, quickly catapulting to notoriety. Warhol made his first pop art paintings in 1961, although it wasn’t until the following year that Warhol began experimenting with the massively influential silkscreen. A technique he learned while in school that has come to be synonymous with Warhol, the silkscreen allowed him to quickly and easily reproduce the images from popular culture that would come to define his oeuvre–Marilyn Monroe, Liz Taylor, Campbell’s Soup Cans, and Brillo Boxes among them. In 1962, Warhol had his first solo exhibition of pop art at the Ferus Gallery in Los Angeles, which displayed all thirty two flavors of Campbell’s Soup. Later that year, Warhol had his first major pop exhibition in New York at Eleanor Ward’s Stable Gallery. By the mid 1960s, Warhol had moved into his now famous Factory on Manhattan’s 47th Street, which was host to a number of notable figures, such as Edie Sedgwick and Nico. At the same time, Warhol had dismissed painting in favor of creating experimental films such as Sleep (1963), a five hour long film of the artist John

Giorno peacefully sleeping. In the 1970s, Warhol returned to painting after a near fatal shooting by Valerie Solanas in 1968. During this time, Warhol investigated several themes ranging from Mao and hammers and sickles, to numerous commissioned portraits of jet set celebrities." (Andy Warhol, Mnuchin Gallery). He founded a movement which equated photography with art, silk screening with art and printmaking with art, and sullied the world of artistic beauty through the dark emanations of his Factory. Calling his photography artistic expression, his factory mass produced pictures of hamburgers and pictures of Mick Jagger, and closed off the story of art in the final chapter of Western civilization: "Warhol's artworks introduced a fascinating new form of artistic expression. In 1961, he unveiled the concept of Pop Art and showcased a collection of paintings that focused on mass produced commercial goods. In 1962, he exhibited his iconic paintings of Campbell's soup cans. He went on to showcase works depicting hamburgers and Coca Cola bottles, alongside portraits of quirky celebrities such as Mick Jagger, Elizabeth Taylor and Marilyn Monroe. He employed several mediums to create his works, including photography, silk screening, and printmaking. In 1964, Warhol opened his own art studio called 'The Factory', where he worked and liaised with society's elite." (Andy Warhol And His Artistic Influence by Emily Brown). He drove a nail into the coffin of art, the second nail driven in the twentieth century. The first nail was the movement of Abstract Expressionism. Appearing in the early part of the century, it equated art with formalism and rejected the representation of reality. The second movement was his own movement, which appeared in the mid twentieth century. It equated art with photography and rejected the function of the artist to portray beauty by means of idealization and essentialization of reality. While Abstract Expressionism elevated the role of the artist to that of a projector of psychosis, his movement of Pop Art reduced the role of the artist to that of a passive photographic recorder of reality without the task of selection. Both movements obliterated the artist, conceived by civilized people for thousands of years as an active portrayer of reality, whose shaping hands and brushstrokes present beauty in a physical medium, such as a canvas or a mass of clay. Rejecting the artist's traditional creations and products, his Pop Art movement disgraced the artist's canvas with photographs of commercial goods, and its images, mass produced, mass replicated and mass manufactured, photographed the ignominious end of artistic progress and enlightenment: "Warhol began utilizing advertising and comic panels in his artworks in 1960. These early Pop Art pieces were distinguished by more emotive and artistic techniques, with clearly discernible brushstrokes. These techniques were also said to have been inspired by Abstract Expressionism. Nonetheless, his subsequent pieces, such as Brillo Boxes (1964), would show a strong reaction against Abstract Expressionism by eliminating virtually all evidence of the artist's handiwork. In 1961, he started working on the famous Campbell's Soup Can pieces. The series used a variety of processes, but the bulk was made by projecting reference photos onto canvases, reproducing them with a lead pencil, and afterward, he would paint over them. With this method, Warhol was able to conceal the majority of the artist's touch. In 1962, Warhol began experimenting with silk screening. Producing a picture onto a porous screen, then adding paint or inks using a rubber sponge, it was the stencil method. This was another method of creating while erasing signs of his hand; similar to the stencil procedures he used to make the Campbell's Soup Can pictures, this also allowed him to replicate the theme numerous times over the same visual, generating a serial image reminiscent of mass manufacturing." (A Look At The Life And Pop Art Paintings Of Andy Warhol by Isabella Meyer). In the eighteenth century, in the city of Konigsberg, in the kingdom of Prussia, a counterfeit coin was minted in the world of philosophy. It was minted by a man venerated as the father of philosophy. It was stamped with the words Art is the free play of pure forms. Art is unrestrained by external objects or content. Art is purely formal and is not representational. Beauty is a matter of subjective taste. The coin had many buyers and became a coin of the realm in the kingdom of philosophy. In the twentieth century, this coin was stamped on two sides. One side of the coin bore the words: Beauty is subjective and art is pure formalism. The obverse side bore the words: Beauty is subjective and art is pure photography. The philosopher who minted the original coin in the eighteenth century was Immanuel Kant. The man who stamped the side with the words Beauty is subjective and art is pure photography was Andy Warhol. At the funeral liturgy held on February 27, 1987 at the Holy Ghost Byzantine Catholic Church in his birthplace, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, his coffin was covered with invasive weeds called asparagus ferns. His spirit rules the garden of artistic degeneration in the new millennium.

THE CONSPIRACY AGAINST DONALD TRUMP

A conspiracy is a secret plan made between two or more people to achieve a criminal purpose. The conspirators conceal their plans from the public and from the victim targeted by their actions. Their goal is to usurp, alter, overthrow or maintain political power. The most famous conspiracy in history was the Gunpowder Plot of 1605, a failed assassination attempt against King James I by English Catholics who sought to restore the Catholic monarchy and make Catholicism the official religion of England. The conspirators' plan to blow up the House of Lords failed when Guy Fawkes, who was guarding thirty six barrels of gunpowder, was arrested. The barrels guarded by Guy Fawkes were not destroyed but rolled down the corridors of history in search of new plotters to deploy them and new treason to commit. In the year 2023, in what was once the freest nation on Earth and once the world's policeman of freedom, the barrels found a new Guy Fawkes to ignite them and fuel a conspiracy. But this time around, there was no apprehension, and the barrels blew up and brought down the world's house of freedom and liberty under the rule of law. This time around, the conspiracy succeeded, and in the United States of America, the successor to the Gunpowder Plot achieved its purpose, and as the explosions thundered across the land, civilized people read in the rubble the terrifying message that freedom can fail in the mightiest of states if the moral decay brought by communism is allowed to spread and flourish. Spread and flourish it did in America as the nation entered into its final stages of development, and it was altogether fitting and proper that the descent into communism of the freest nation on Earth should produce the greatest conspiracy to maintain tyranny in the history of mankind, and should produce the greatest crime ever committed, a crime so great that its barrels of moral sulfur reduced the West itself to ashes and composed the final chapter of civilization. The 1605 Gunpowder Plot to blow up freedom was successfully reenacted in America in the new millennium, and the plotters, far from being apprehended and executed as the original plotters were, were lauded as national heroes and received standing ovations by the communist half of the nation and its national communist establishment. On August 1, 2023, a black star appeared across the skies of America and completed a pattern of conspiracy whose target was Donald Trump and whose aim was the maintenance of the communist regime ruled by the Democrat Party. Put into place by the Democrat Party in the 1930s under the administration of Franklin Roosevelt, whose Social Security Act of 1935, robbing Peter to pay Paul and finance Paul's retirement pension, emblazoned the Soviet Red Star across the country, this communist regime was resisted by a stalwart defense of freedom conducted by the forty fifth president of the United States, in office from 2017 to 2021, a defense whose vigor inflamed the defenders of the establishment and one half of the nation to a fever pitch, and this forty fifth president of the United States was targeted for total destruction. The points of conspiracy against Donald Trump are as clear and unmistakable as the noonday sun, and reveal a design to reduce America to a state of lawlessness as ruthless and unrestrained as it is hate inspired and unAmerican. Four points of conspiracy have taken America out of the camp of Western nations and sent it plunging into the jungles of a banana republic.
Item. On August 1, 2023, the latest point in the conspiracy against Trump appeared. On that day, Special Counsel Jack Smith announced that a grand jury in Washington DC had indicted Trump on charges related to the January 6, 2021 attempted insurrection at the United States Capital, staged by

Trump and the people to stop the certification of the fraudulent presidential election of 2020. The fraudulent character of the election saw the manufacturing of millions of votes for Joe Biden in voter rolls, mail in ballots, drop boxes and ballot trafficking operations, and is established by an Alexandrian library of electronic data: "Dirty voter rolls, the mass use of mail in ballots, and privately funded drop boxes 'combined together to create an easy pass lane for fraud,' as mules—or ballot traffickers—trafficked thousands of ballots, likely altering the outcome of the 2020 election, True the Vote president and founder Catherine Engelbrecht told Breitbart News Saturday. 'We geo fenced or put a sort of a digital fence, if you will, around all the drop boxes, and then we bought a tremendous amount of cellphone data and cellphone data that is transferred off of the apps of your phone that give you great indication about the whereabouts, the time, [and] the location,' she began, noting that they watched the travel patterns of devices going to drop boxes, doing so in five states in five jurisdictions. At the same time, the organization fought for surveillance video around the drop boxes and were ultimately able to thread it all together." (True The Vote's Catherine Engelbrecht: 'Mules' Went On Routes Trafficking Ballots 'Repeatedly, Day After Day' Ahead Of The 2020 Election by Hannah Bleau). On December 11, 2020, the United States Supreme Court issued a ruling which would instigate an attempt at insurrection staged by Donald Trump and the people. In the case Texas v. Pennsylvania, the court ruled that Texas had no standing to sue Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin, which had violated the Constitution by changing election rules through nonlegislative means. Article Two of the Constitution reserves to state legislatures and to state legislatures alone the right to make rules for the conduct of federal presidential elections: "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress." The states sued by Texas had changed their election rules without legislative authorization in an attempt to ensure the victory of Joe Biden. On December 11, 2020, the United States Supreme Court banged the gavel and dismissed the suit on grounds which outraged legal scholars and ordinary citizens throughout the nation. The court ruled that Texas had no legal standing to sue the other states for violations of the constitution. Legal scholars and ordinary citizens alike understood that every citizen of the United States, by virtue of being a citizen of the same nation governed under the same document, has a right to challenge an infringement of constitutional rights and to vindicate the rule of law. They understood that under one national government and one national constitution, an attack on any citizen by any one government is an attack on all citizens everywhere throughout the nation, and an attack by Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin on the right of the residents of their states to vote in free, fair and lawfully governed elections is an attack on the right of every American everywhere in the nation to vote in free, fair and lawfully governed elections. On January 6, 2021, at a joint session of Congress to count electoral votes, Vice President Mike Pence released a letter to Congress which would instigate an attempt at insurrection staged by Donald Trump and the people. Pence proclaimed that he had no authority under the constitution to reject fraudulent electoral votes and overturn the results of the fraudulent presidential election. Legal scholars and ordinary citizens alike were outraged at Pence's abdication of responsibility because they understood that under the constitution the vice president possesses the authority to reject fraudulent electoral votes, on the grounds that fraudulent electoral votes are votes in name only: "The President of the Senate shall, in the Presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the Certificates, and the Votes shall then be counted." (Article Two). All peaceful means to reverse a fraudulent election having been denied, Donald Trump and the people were left with no option but to use force and storm the United States Capital to prevent the fraudulent certification of the election. On August 1, 2023, Special Counsel Jack Smith announced the indictment of Trump for the following: for seeking to do what Trump had no choice but to do, to use force against a government which was about to violate the constitution and certify a fraudulent election; for exercising his free speech rights under the constitution to publicly condemn the fraudulent election; and for condemning an election which Trump, Smith alleged, knew was not fraudulent: "The special counsel investigating Donald Trump's efforts to overturn the 2020 election results has issued four charges against the US former president. The forty five page indictment alleges Mr Trump orchestrated a broad conspiracy designed to keep him in power after he was defeated by President Joe Biden. It accused him of knowingly spreading 'pervasive and destabilizing lies' about election fraud that threatened the presidential election and therefore American democracy. The four charges are conspiracy to defraud the United States, conspiracy to obstruct an official proceeding, obstruction of an official proceeding, and conspiracy against rights. Some legal experts say it will be a challenge to prove that Mr Trump's actions amount to crimes, and that a potential defence could be that what he said and did was protected by the US Constitutional First Amendment right to free speech." (Five Takeaways From Trump's Indictment For 2020 Election Interference by Kayla Epstein). The indictment came one day after former Hunter Biden business associate Devon Archer testified at the House Oversight Committee about the following: that Hunter Biden put Joe Biden on the telephone with Hunter's business associates to sell Joe Biden's office of vice president; that Hunter Biden was hired by the Ukrainian energy company Burisma to influence Joe Biden to stop a prosecutor who was investigating Burisma for corruption; and that Hunter Biden illegally earned millions of dollars from China and given Joe Biden a percentage of the proceeds. Item. On June 8, 2023, Special Counsel Jack Smith announced the indictment of Donald Trump for retaining classified government documents, something Trump had a right to do under the constitution, which grants plenary, executive and commander in chief power to the president. The indictment came hours after Congress had revealed that Joe and Hunter Biden received five million dollars each as bribes from Burisma as payment for allowing one billion dollars in aid to Ukraine to proceed and for having the prosecutor investigating corruption at Burisma fired: "An FBI informant claims to possess two pieces of evidence that show President Joe Biden received $5 million after threatening to withold aid to Ukraine until a prosecutor probing the Ukrainian energy company Burisma Holdings was fired, House Oversight Committee Republicans told reporters after reviewing the bureau's informant file in a secure area. In 2015, Burisma was under suspicion of money laundering and public corruption. Prosecutor Victor Shokin investigated the case before his termination due to pressure applied by then Vice President Joe Biden, who threatened to withhold $1 billion in U.S. aid from Ukraine if the Ukrainian government did not fire the prosecutor investigating Burisma. He later bragged about the firing during a 2018 appearance at the Council of Foreign Relations." (GOP Lawmakers: Joe Biden Got $5M After Getting Ukrainian Prosecutor Fired by Wendell Husebo). Item. On July 27, 2023, Special Counsel Jack Smith announced more indictments of Donald Trump in the documents case, plus indictments against Trump's propery manager at his Florida residence, Mar a lago. The indictments were announced one day after Hunter Biden's plea bargain with federal prosecutors was rejected by the judge. Under the proposed agreement, Hunter Biden would accept a guilty plea for two tax misdemeanors and a diversion program for a gun violation in exchange for immunity from prosecution for corrupt business dealings and for accepting bribes from Burisma along with Joe Biden. The judge rejected the agreement on the grounds it prevented justice from pursuing its proper course. Item. On April 4, 2023, New York District Attorney Alvin Bragg announced the indictment of Donald Trump on charges related to hush money payments he allegedly made to film actress Stormy Daniels when he was a presidential candidate in 2016. The charges are federal offenses outside of Bragg's jurisdiction: "This is a flawed case if it is based on a state charge effectively prosecuting the federal election violation. That federal case was rejected by the Justice Department." (Jonathan Turley, tweet, March 18, 2023). The indictment was announced hours after former Joe Biden aide Kathy Chung testified before the House Oversight Committee that Biden's statements regarding his illegal mishandling of classified documents were false and that the documents were not kept in a locked closet at the Penn Biden Center, as Biden had maintained: "The boxes were not in a locked closet at the Penn Biden Center and remained accessible to Penn Biden employees as well as potentially others with access to the office space. We need to find out who had access to these documents." (Chairman Comer's Statement On Transcribed Interview with Kathy Chung, April 4, 2023). Four announcements of indictments against Donald Trump made just after the appearance of four negative news stories about Joe Biden. Four points of a conspiracy reaching up to the highest levels of government. Four points in a plot trajectory whose writers are the sworn enemies of a free society and its rule of law which once made America the envy of the world.

COMMUNISM COLORED BARBIE

Bait and switch is a form of fraud used by dishonest shopkeepers. In it customers are baited to enter a shop by advertisements featuring goods at low prices. When they enter the shop, they discover that the advertised goods are not available and are targeted by shop assistants who try to sell them higher priced goods. The tactic of bait and switch has a long history in the annals of commercial activity and was first described in the seventeenth century in the world famous Book Of Swindles by Zhang Yingyu. In the twentieth century, the tactic of bait and switch sprang out of the precincts of the commericial shop and plunged into the dark world of political subversion manned by the shopkeepers of communism. In 1902, on the pages of What Is To Be Done?, Vladimir Lenin introduced it to the world. He proposed a method of concealing the Communist Party, which at the time was illegal in Russia, by the creation of front organizations with mass appeal: "I propose to reach the masses through a large number of other organizations intended for wide membership and, which, therefore, can be as loose and as public as possible" The communist bait and switch tactic led to the creation of Popular Front governing coalitions throughout Europe in the 1930s, and a plethora of private communist front organizations in the postwar period, exemplified by the World Federation of Democratic Youth, the International Union of Students, the World Federation of Trade Unions, the Women's International Democratic Federation and the World Peace Council. As the cancer of communism spread across society, no sector and institution was left untouched. The cancer spread far and wide, entered every home, school and office in the land, took contol over the media and entertainment industries, altered the colorations of careers, callings, friends and families, and on July 9, 2023, at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles, it reached the pinnacle of its development. On this day, the most successful communist propaganda film and front project in the sordid history of this tactic made its premiere. On this day, Warner Brothers Pictures released Barbie and it has gone on to gross one billion dollars worldwide and become the third highest grossing film of 2023. The film was a record breaking box office success during its opening, breaking the record in sales for a film not a sequel, remake or superhero property. The film is the latest in a long line of communist propaganda films, beginning with Sergei Eisenstein's Strike, Battleship Potemkin and October made in Russia in the 1920s, progressing through The Battle Of Russia, The Boy From Stalingrad, Mission To Moscow and Song Of Russia made in America in the 1940s, and seeing the production of Strange World, Lightyear, Bros and Amsterdam made in America in the new millennium. Based on the Barbie fashion doll manufactured by Mattel, which for six decades has been the largest selling and most iconic children's toy in the world, achieving sales exceeding one billion dollars in 2023, the film brings to cinematic perfection the tactic of bait and switch pioneered by Lenin. The Bait. The actress Margot Robbie, who appears in versimilitude to the original Barbie doll, as blonde, blue eyed, beautiful and possessing maximum sex appeal. She dances, disports and declaims in a pink colored Barbieland awash in a soundtrack comprised of upbeat popular tunes. The Switch. Once lured inside the cinema, the audience is bombarded with far left messages encased in missiles marked beautiful women, missiles hurtling under the guidance and leadership of the head missile, Barbie, missiles which sugar coat the messages and make them easier to listen to. Listen to the film's candy colored communism and hear the tenets of a religion older than all the ages of the film's cast combined, a religion born in the swamplands of hatred, rage, rancor and resentment which have threatened to submerge civilization for thousands of years, and in the declining stages of civilization, have done so. Listen to the film proclaim that capitalism is a system of patriarchy. Capitalism is a system of subjugation of women by powerful, privileged males. Capitalism is a system which robs women of their rights, freedoms and dignity. Capitalism is a system which victimizes women ruthlessly, relentlessly and round the clock. A progressive society has smashed the liberal democratic system and installed women as the rulers of the world. Men are a nightmare species of unmitigated horror who have polluted the planet and destroyed the lives of women. A progressive society has smashed the liberal system of equal protection under the law and established a diversity and inclusion dystopia ruled by women, nonwhites, transgenders and the handicapped. Men are haughty, conceited and deem themselves deserving of special treatment and privileges at the expense of women and must be exterminated. Capitalism is a system in which women are rendered weak and vulnerable. Men objectify, commodify, endanger and disrespect women and must be exterminated. A progressive society is ruled by confident, successful, high achieving women who have reduced men to the status of second class citizens. Capitalism is a system which makes women subservient to men and reduces them to the status of chattel slaves. Men are morally, spiritually, intellectually and emotionally inferior to women and must be exterminated. Capitalism is a dictatorial power structure under the lash and iron heel of men. A progressive society is a feminist society, an antiliberal society, an unequal society, a society in which women dominate from the boardroom to the bakery, and men have been reduced to the status of a permanent underclass: "What is the patriarchy? I bet most people reading this haven’t a clue. Even I don’t really understand it, and according to radical feminists, I’m supposed to be the very personification of what it supposedly represents. Yet it’s a word that is said so relentlessly in the smash hit new Barbie movie that it’s worth knowing exactly what it means. The literal translation, derived from the ancient Greek word patriarkhes, is 'ruler of the family' and denoted the reality at the time that men were the titular heads of most families and organization. But in recent times, the concept of the patriarchy has been hijacked and corrupted by feminazis to suggest that every aspect of life and society is dominated by powerful, privileged males over subjugated, underprivileged females. In short: Men are evil oppressors, women are unimpeachably perfect victims, and anyone who dares challenge this notion is a disgusting misogynist. Barbie does nothing to dissuade anyone from this view. The movie’s clear message is that the only solution to this dreadful patriarchal state of affairs is for women to rule the world, and preferably to do so on their own without horrible men to ruin both the planet and them. It’s a ridiculously misandrist message that is being rammed down the throats of literally tens of millions of people as Barbie smashes box office records around the world with a $300 million opening weekend--even eclipsing Oppenheimer, Christopher Nolan’s much vaunted blockbuster about the man who invented the atomic bomb. And forgive me if I don’t join in the widespread exclamations of unbridled joy at its unexpected success. What passes for a plot in the film basically boils down this: Barbie, played by Margot Robbie, exists in Barbieland with myriad other Barbies who tick every possible woke virtue signaling box—there’s a trans Barbie, a Barbie in a wheelchair, and President Barbie is a black woman. This is a feminist utopia where the Barbies are all powerful and the Kens, led by Ryan Gosling, are a bunch of second class, useless halfwits. Then Barbie and Ken are transported to the supposed real world, where, predictably, they discover that it’s all great for men and terrible for women. Ken quickly embraces the despicable 'patriarchy' with breathless bro enthusiasm and becomes an entitled, arrogant, macho douchebag. Poor Barbie, meanwhile, instantly becomes an objectified, imperiled, vulnerable victim of men who leer at her and treat her with horrible disrespect. We’re told: 'Everything exists to expand and elevate the presence of men.' Really? I don’t think the real world is like that at all. The real world I occupy is chock full of confident, high achieving women who would laugh at such a derisory mischaracterization of their status in life. And the truth about the patriarchy riddled real world is that for all the grotesque man bashing caricatures it propagates, all it really does is afford agency and voice to men when compared with their dystopian nightmare in Barbie land where men are downtrodden chattels of their women. Yet we're supposed to think this is disgusting! Newly empowered patriarchal monster Ken returns to Barbie land, where he and his fellow Kens turn it into their own personal Kendom and brainwash the remaining Barbies into becoming subservient. But head Barbie rides to the rescue by seizing back control and driving the hapless Kens back to being subservient saps to the women again. To which my response is: Why? I thought the whole point of feminism is that women wanted equality with men, not a complete reversal of the perceived unequal social power structure. I don't know any woman, other than perhaps US female soccer superstar Megan Rapinoe, who wants a world where women dominate absolutely everything—and men are reduced to dimwitted doormats barely capable of changing a light bulb." (If I Made A Movie That Treated Women The Way Barbie Treats Men, Fminists Would Want Me Executed by Piers Morgan). Battleship Potemkin was directed by Sergei Eisenstein in 1925. Hailed as the greatest communist propaganda film of all time, the film is the story of a mutiny staged by a communist crew in 1905 against their capitalist officers on board the Russian battleship Potemkin. The film has received standing ovations from communists for the past one hundred years and they have been demanding a encore and sequel. In 2023, the curtain rose and the lights dimmed in Los Angeles for a film directed by Greta Gerwig. The encore had arrived. Inspired by Lenin, Hollywood utilized the winning formula. Communism was blasted at the audience in concealed form. Spoken by a popular brand wrapped in pink escapist fluff, this worthy successor to Eisensein's dark masterpiece has broken the box office and reached billions at the end of the age.

COMMUNISTS INDICT AMERICA

Crocodiles are among the most fearsome and ferocious animals on Earth. The specter of their bite sends humans and animals running for their lives. Sitting, waiting and rushing out to attack, they feed by grabbing hold of their prey. Their sharp teeth pierce and hold onto the flesh, while their muscles close the jaws and hold them shut. The prey cannot escape. The jaws bite down with the strongest force known to any animal: 22,000 newtons, surpassing 10,000 newtons for an alligator and 18,000 newtons for a shark. Terrorizing the tropics in the Northern and Southern hemispheres of the globe, crocodiles are on a perpetual mission to kill. In the new millennium, in a land once venerated as the freest nation on Earth and once feared as the greatest arsenal of freedom the world has ever known, a crocodile fashioned in the swamplands of the mob has been let loose to hunt down its prey. The fall of America into this lowland of crocodilian terror illustrates, as nothing else illustrates, the frightening law that mob rule can fell the mightiest of trees and will spare no nation, great or small, when moral rot has set in. The fall of America, the citadel of all citadels and the citadel of all the cities in the free world, into the flooded plains of majoritarian tyranny provides the worst instance imaginable of a nightmare law governing man and the state from which civilized people have reeled back in horror as they have acknowledged its irrefutable truth: the law that communism is a cancer which spreads throughout society when the society has entered into its final stages of development and descended into wild ground in which the masses get everything they want. On August 1, 2023, this cancer, this communism, this crocodile struck hard in America and attacked its prey to such an extent that the prey will never rise again. Its prey was freedom and the predator assumed the physical form and shape of a prosecutor. On August 1, 2023, Special Counsel Jack Smith did the mob's final bidding and closed the arc of the communist takeover of America. On August 1, 2023, the cancer and crocodile of communism embarked on the last leg of its mission to kill a man in which freedom had made its last stand, Donald Trump, and when it opened its jaws and snapped them shut with its terrifying force, not only the forty third president of the United States was devoured but along with him the freedoms which define free societies: the freedom to speak the truth, the freedom to dissent from an orthodoxy of falsehoods, and the freedom to revolt when peaceful means of redress have been foreclosed. On August 1, 2023, for the first time in American history, political dissent, the dissemination of truth and the right of revolution were criminalized. On August 1, 2023, Special Counsel Jack Smith announced that a grand jury in Washington DC had indicted Donald Trump on charges related to the January 6, 2021 attempted insurrection staged to stop the certification of a fraudulent election. The indictment presumed as fact the integrity of the 2020 presidential election, which a library of physical and witness testimony attested was fraudulent, as it presumed that there is no right to redress grievances against a government with the use of force when peaceful means of redress have been foreclosed: "Despite having lost, the Defendant was determined to stay in power. So for more than two months following Election Day on November 3, 2020, the Defendant spread lies that there had been outcome-determinative fraud in the election that he actually won. These claims were false, and the Defendant knew they were false. But the Defendant repeated and widely disseminated them anyway—to make his knowingly false claims appear legitimate, create an intense national atmosphere of mistrust and anger, and erode public faith in the administration of the election." The 2020 presidential election was stolen by computers programmed by Dominion Voting Systems to commit harm against American democracy. It was stolen by ballot scanners and ballot marking devices which gave victory to Joe Biden. It was stolen by a poison coursing through cyberspace which cast and tabulated nonexistent votes for Joe Biden. It was stolen by malevolent actors whose equipment undermined the ballot counting process and changed votes to Joe Biden. It was stolen by machines which were vulnerable to attack and which were attacked by activists who sought to violate the constitutional right to vote in free and fair elections. It was stolen by partisans for Joe Biden whose malware made impossible the authentication of votes, the protection of votes, the validation of votes, the auditing of votes, the counting of votes, the control of votes, the accuracy of votes, the security of votes and the integrity of votes, and established a regime of election management, manipulation and subversion without precedent in the nation's history, which installed Joe Biden as president of the United States: "In 2020, Georgia replaced its insecure, decades old DRE [direct recording electronic] voting machines with new ballot scanners and ballot marking devices (BMDs) manufactured by Dominion Voting Systems. Although the same BMDs are used for accessibility in parts of approximately fifteen other states, Georgia is unique in using them statewide as the primary method of in person voting. This unusual arrangement places potentially malicious computers between Georgia voters and their paper ballots. In contrast, in most of the United States, voters mark paper ballots directly by hand, and BMDs are reserved for those who need or request them. Georgians who vote at a polling place generally have no choice but to use the BMDs. All voting systems face cybersecurity risks. As the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine recently concluded 'there is no realistic mechanism to fully secure vote casting and tabulation computer systems from cyber threats'. However, not all voting systems are equally vulnerable. Curling Plaintiffs contend that Georgia’s universal use BMD voting system is so insecure that it violates voters’ constitutional rights. To assist the Court in understanding the risks that the system creates, Curling Plaintiffs asked me to conduct a security analysis of the ImageCastX (ICX) BMD and associated equipment used in Georgia elections. Using an ICX provided by Fulton County, I played the role of an attacker and attempted to discover ways to compromise the system and change votes. I, along with my assistant, spent a total of approximately twelve person weeks studying the machines, testing for vulnerabilities, and developing proof of concept attacks. Many of the attacks I successfully implemented could be effectuated by malicious actors with very limited time and access to the machines, as little as mere minutes. This report documents my findings and conclusions. I show that the ICX suffers from critical vulnerabilities that can be exploited to subvert all of its security mechanisms, including: user authentication, data integrity protection, access control, privilege separation, audit logs, protective counters, hash validation, and external firmware validation. I demonstrate that these vulnerabilities provide multiple routes by which attackers can install malicious software on Georgia's BMDs, either with temporary physical access or remotely from election management systems (EMSs). I explain how such malware can alter voters' votes while subverting all of the procedural protections practiced by the State, including acceptance testing, hash validation, logic and accuracy testing, external firmware validation, and risk limiting audits (RLAs)." (Security Analysis Of Georgia's ImageCast X Ballot Marking Devices. Expert Report Submitted On Behalf Of Plaintiffs Donna Curling, et al. Curling v. Raffensperger, Civil Action, US District Court For The Northern District Of Georgia, Atlanta Division by Alex Halderman). On December 11, 2020, the United States Supreme Court issued a ruling which made the use of force by crowds led by Donald Trump at the United States Capital on January 6, 2021 to overturn the fraudulent 2020 election results, and all of Donald Trump's other efforts to overturn the election results, a moral and political necessity. The suit brought before the Court was Texas v. Pennsylvania. Filed by Texas Attorney General Kenneth Paxton, the suit identified that Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin violated the United States Constitution by changing election procedures through nonlegislative means. Article Two of the Constitution gives state legislatures and state legislatures alone the power to establish rules for the appointment of presidential electors: "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress." On December 11, 2020, the United States Supreme Court dismissed the suit on the grounds that Texas lacked standing under Article Three of the Constitution to challenge the results of an election held by another state. The Court's decision shocked the conscience of ordinary citizens and legal scholars throughout the nation, who understood that every individual and every state in the nation is harmed by violations of the national Constitution, and that the only individuals who lack standing to sue for violations of the national Constitution are foreign citizens living in other countries. On December 11, 2020, the United States Supreme Court issued the infamous words which would reverberate throughout the nation and justify the use of force and push upholders of the Constitution into an attempt at insurrection: "Texas lacks Article Three standing to sue other states over how they conduct their own elections. Case dismissed." The right to use force against a government to redress grievances when that government has foreclosed all peaceful means of redress has long been a right recognized by civilized people. It is a natural, moral right inherent in a person's natural, moral right to live in freedom so that he may flourish as a person. It is a right enshrined in the founding document of America, a document adopted on July 4, 1776 by the Second Continental Congress, a document which is one of the most circulated and reprinted documents in history: "Whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness." On August 1, 2023, Special Counsel Jack Smith nullified this natural right of revolution as he criminalized the voices of truth and dissent for the first time in American history: "Prosecutors go on to outline a three part criminal conspiracy that violated various elements of Section 18 of the US Code: 1. A conspiracy to defraud the US by using fraud and deceit to impair, obstruct and defeat how the government collects, counts and certifies the results of presidential elections. 2. A conspiracy to corruptly obstruct and impede the certification of the electoral college results by Congress on 6 January. 3. A conspiracy against the right to vote and to have one's vote counted, which comes under the conspiracy against rights statute. That last charge brings home the alleged harm Mr Trump directly caused to voters, said Daniel Charles Richman, a professor at Columbia University Law School." (Five Takeaways From Trump's Indictment For 2020 Election Interference by Kayla Epstein). On August 3, 2023, Donald Trump was booked, fingerprinted and arraigned in a Washington DC court. On August 3, 2023, every man, woman and child in America was booked, fingerprinted and arraigned. On August 3, 2023, at 4 PM local time, before Magistrate Judge Moxila Upadhyaya, two centuries of freedom were booked, fingerprinted and arraigned by a new criminal infrastructure which propelled America into the ranks of history's state supported nightmares.

ROBERT OPPENHEIMER: AMERICAN TRAITOR

David John Moore Cornwall, better known by his pen name John le Carré, was the greatest novelist of the postwar era. His espionage novels are international bestsellers and have been adapted for motion pictures and television. His 1974 novel Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy introduced to the public a term which has become a popular part of general usage. It is an unpleasant term because it references the black dagger of treason which can kill millions and make free societies collapse. The term is mole and it refers to a long term spy operating within a government. The most famous examples of moles were the Cambridge Five, five students at Cambridge University who were recruited by the KGB in the 1930s and rose to the highest levels of the British government; CIA agent Aldrich Ames, who spied for the KGB in the 1980s; and FBI agent Robert Hannsen, who spied for the KGB from 1979 to 2001. But these moles were not the most lethal. Their activities compromised American assets, strategies, weapons technologies and countersespionage programs but did not kill millions. That dubious distinction belongs to a mole venerated as an American hero and prometheus. He was America's most famous physicist, the director of the Manhattan Project's Los Alamos Laboratory during World War II, and the creator of America's atomic bomb. He was the voice of the American cultural and political establishment as few people were, and exemplified as few people did the proverb, common to languages throughout the world, that the fish rots from the head down. His name was Robert Oppenheimer and his support for the communist cause, his espionage activities on behalf of the Soviet Union, and his opposition to the development of the hydrogen bomb strengthened and emboldened Soviet aggression and led to the deaths of millions of people in Europe, in Asia and during the Korean War. The career of Robert Oppenheimer was a career of betrayal which fashioned a rifle for the enemies of the freedom and made it blast out communist power and propaganda beginning in the 1930s. The rifle began blasting in 1934, when Oppenheimer dedicated three percent of his annual salary for two years in support of communist physicists in Germany seeking to escape from the country. During the 1934 West Coast Waterfront Strike, organized by the communist front International Longshore and Warehouse Union, Oppenheimer was a faithful participant in the strikers' rallies. During the Spanish Civil War, Oppenheimer hosted fundraisers for the communist controlled Republicans which generated thousands of dollars. From 1938 to 1942, at the University of California at Berkeley, Oppenheimer was a member of a secret underground unit of the Communist Party's professional section: "The reason for my writing to you is that an important part of the story concerns your and my membership in the same unit of the Communist Party from 1938 to 1942. I should like to deal with this in its proper perspective, telling the facts as I remember them. As this is one of the things in your life which, in my opinion, you have least to be ashamed of, and as your commitment, attested among other things by your Reports To Our Colleagues, which today make impressive reading, was a deep and genuine one, I consider that it would be a grave omission not to give it its due prominence." (Letter to Robert Oppenheimer from Haakon Chevalier, July 23, 1964). Oppenheimer's membership in the Communist Party and espionage activities on behalf of the Soviet Union are described by Barbara Chevalier in her unpublished manuscript, Robert Oppenheimer And Haakon Chevalier: From The

Memoirs Of Barbara Chevalier, and in notes taken down on the manucript by the editor: "Barbara wrote that it was shortly after Oppenheimer crossed the country by train and read Marx that he and Haakon joined the Communist Party. 'Shortly thereafter, he and Haakon joined a secret unit of the Communist Party. There must have been only 6 or 8 members—a doctor, a wealthy businessman.' Barbara wrote that she deliberately did not want to remember their names in the event she was questioned about them later. Barbara remembered that Haakon told her about the appeal from Eltenton [George Eltenton] while they were driving in a car: 'The Russians want to know.' 'Diary of February 19, 1983: The absurd ridiculousness of the situation never occurred to him [Haakon Chevalier]. This innocent teacher of modern French literature be the conduit to Russians of what Oppie [Oppenhiemer] was doing.' " (brotherhoodofthebomb.com). In March 1941, the Federal Bureau of Investigation opened a file on Oppenheimer. The file recorded that in December 1940, Oppenheimer attended a Communist Party meeting at Haakon Chevalier's home which was attended by the party's California state secretary, William Schneiderman. In 1942, the FBI added Oppenheimer to its Custodial Detention Index, which authorized his arrest in the event of a national emergency. Both Oppenheimer and his wife were members of the Communist Party: "Barbara wrote that Kitty told her after the war that she and Oppie had told the FBI they had been members of the Communist Party. 'It is possible that Kitty had been an open member of the party before meeting Oppie, but Oppie's membership in a closed unit was very secret indeed.' " (Robert Oppenheimer And Haakon Chevalier: From The Memoirs Of Barbara Chevalier, unpublished manuscript by Barbara Chevalier, with notes taken down by the editor). Oppenheimer was a veiled member of the Communist Party, a member without the traditional membership card: "What Griffiths [historian Gordon Griffith] revealed in that unpublished, but thoughtfully crafted, mem oir was very significant: He had been for a few years, apparently mostly before Pearl Harbor, a secret CP liaison to a small clandestine CP cell in Berkeley; that cell included both Oppenheimer and Chevalier. Griffiths wrote, 'Nobody carried a party card,' and Griffiths was sure that both men—Oppenheimer and Chevalier—had 'considered themselves to be communists.' Griffiths's recollections—not intended for public consumption, and by a man who was writing when still on the American left—constitute powerful evidence. He stated, '[T]he time has come to set the record straight.' " (Christopher Nolan's Forthcoming Oppenheimer Movie: A Historian's Questions, Worries and Challenges by Barton Bernstein). Oppenheimer placed himself in the service of the Soviet Union, installed treason as head of the nation's laboratories, and provided access to nuclear secrets to the greatest enemy of freedom the world has ever known: "In accordance with your instruction of September 29, 1944, NKGB USSR continues measures for obtaining more detailed information on the state of work on the [use of uranium] and its development abroad. In the period 1942-1943 important data on the start of work in the [USA] on this problem was received from our foreign agent network using the contacts of Comrade Zarubin and Kheifitz in their execution of important tasks in line with the executive committee of the Comintern. In 1942 one of the leaders of scientific work on [uranium] in the USA, Professor Oppenheimer, while being an unlisted member of the apparat of Comrade Browder] informed us about the beginning of work. On the request of Comrade Kheifitz, confirmed by [Browder] he provided cooperation in access to research for several of our tested sources including a relative of [Browder]. Due to complications of the operational situation in the [USA] the dissolution of the [Comintern] and explanations of Comrades Zarubin and Kheifitz on the Mironov affair, it is expedient to immediately sever contacts of leaders and activists of the [American Communist Party] with scientists and specialists engaged in work on [uranium]. NKGB requests the consent of the leadership." (Letter From Boris Merkulov, USSR People's Commissar For State Security, To Lavrenty Beria, USSR People's Commissar For Internal Affairs, October 2, 1944, digitalarchive.wilsoncenter.org/document/letter-boris-merkulov-ussr-peoples-commissar-state-security-lavrenty-beria-ussr-peoples). William Borden was a prominent American lawyer, congressional staffer and from 1949 to 1953 was director of the United States Congress Joint Committee On Atomic Energy. On November 7, 1953, he sent a letter to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, on Robert Oppenheimer. The letter set forth facts about Oppenheimer which were as clear and unmistakable as they were fearsome and terrifying: "The purpose of this letter is to state my own exhaustively considered opinion, based upon years of study, of the available classified evidence that more probably than not J. Robert Oppenheimer is an agent of the Soviet Union." The letter set forth the following. Robert Oppenheimer: his support for communism was loyal and unwavering and survived the German-Soviet Pact and the Soviet attack on Finland. Robert Oppenheimer: the people he recruited into the Manhattan Project were exclusively communists. Robert Oppenheimer: he recruited people into the Communist Party. Robert Oppenheimer: he was in regular contact with Soviet spies. Robert Oppenheimer: he transmitted nuclear secrets to the Soviets at his own initiative and upon the Soviets' request. Robert Oppenheimer: he lied to General Leslie Groves, director of the Manhattan Project, and to the FBI regarding his membership in and work for the Communist Party and his espionage activities on behalf of the Soviet Union. Robert Oppenheimer: in the postwar period, he continued to serve the Soviet cause and sought to influence American military, intelligence, diplomatic and nuclear energy policies to serve the interests of the Soviet Union. He opposed America's the development of the hydrogen bomb, nuclear submarines, nuclear power plants and peaceful uses of nuclear energy. As a result of Borden's letter, the Atomic Energy Commission convened a hearing on Oppenheimer on April 12, 1954. During the hearing, Edward Teller, world renowned physicist and creator of America's hydrogen bomb, described Oppenheimer as a security risk and instrument of Soviet foreign policy: "In a great number of cases, I have seen Dr. Oppenheimer act--I understand that Dr Oppenheimer acted--in a way which for me was exceedingly hard to understand. I thoroughly disagreed with him in numerous issues and his actions frankly appeared to me confused and complicated. To this extent I feel that I would like to see the vital interests of this country in hands which I understand better, and therefore trust more. If it is a question of wisdom or judgment, as demonstrated by actions since 1945, then I would say one would be wiser not to grant clearance." (The Oppenheimer Case by Philip Stern). On May 27, 1954, the AEC revoked Oppenheimer's security clearance. The commission concluded that Oppenheimer was a supporter of communism who lied under oath about his membership in the Communist Party, and was an enemy of the security of America: "His association with [Haakon] Chevalier is not the kind of thing that our security system permits on the part of one who customarily has access to information of the highest classification. Oppenheimer's continuing conduct reflects a serious disregard for the requirements of the security system. He is susceptible to influence which could have serious implications for the security interests of the country. His attitude toward the H bomb program raises doubt about whether his future participation would be consistent with the best interests of security. He has been less than candid in several instances in his testimony." (The Oppenheimer Case by Philip Stern). Robert Oppenheimer proclaimed to be a fighter for world peace, freedom and security. He defined these to be the peace, freedom and security established under the iron heel of communism. This fighter for the cause of communist war and enslavement has been whitewashed by the American establishment for over seventy years. The latest whitewash occurred in the 2023 Hollywood film Oppenheimer: American Prometheus. Lauded by the establishment as a cinematic masterpiece, the film is indeed a masterpiece. Portraying Oppenheimer as a noble, loyal American, it is a masterpiece in dishonesty filming the final act of the nation.

COMMUNIST BOOK BURNINGS BLACKEN BRITAIN'S SKIES

Censorship is the suppression of communication deemed objectionable. The history of censorship is long, tragic and terrifying. It saw Chinese troops destroy the statue of the Goddess of Democracy in Tiananmen Square in 1989. It saw the suppression of maps of Europe by communist East Germany in order to make escape attempts difficult. It saw the prohibition of copying machines by communist governments throughout the world in order to hinder the production and distribution of self published works critical of communism. It saw the Federal Service for Supervision of Communications, Information Technology and Mass Media in Vladimir Putin's Russia order the nation's media to use information from Russian state sources or face censorship. It saw mass book burnings conducted in national socialist Germany in the 1930s. It saw the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation's censorship of emails from Hunter Biden's laptop on Twitter, emails revealing a global influence peddling operation conducted by Joe Biden, censorship enforced three weeks before the 2020 United States presidential election. In the most tragic and terrifying chapter in the history of censorship, the hand of suppression has been activated by the nation which gave the world the principle of a free press. It has been activated by the nation which established the world's first safe spaces for uncensored speech symbolized by the Speaker's Corners which proudly dot its public squares. It has been activated by the nation which first established in its bills, charters and common law the fundamental right of free and open communication. It has been activated in Britain in the twenty first century by the communist establishment in control of the nation and it has reversed one thousand years of mental life unshackeled. This glorious English millennium commenced with the promulgation of the Magna Carta, the Great Charter of Freedoms, agreed to by King John of England on June 15, 1215. It saw Edward Coke's proclamation in 1590 that "freedom of speech is an ancient custom of Parliament". It saw the Protestation of 1621, in which the House of Commons declared that freedom of speech is a fundamental right. It saw the Bill of Rights of 1689, which established the constitutional right of freedom of speech. In the twenty first century, in the first nation in the world which set down in writing and set forth in practice the right of the individual to express his ideas and opinions without fear of censorship, the hand of suppression has dug a grave. It has dug the grave of "This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England" and has dug the grave of Western civilization. Look at Britain today and see the suppression of books critical of transgenderism. See the suppression of books critical of a religion which rejects one hundred years of scientific research establishing that gender is determined by genes carried in chromosomes and is fixed and immutable. See the suppression of books which recognize the genetic basis of gender determination and deny that gender can be changed by medical treatment or by a simple declaration that one identifies as a member of the opposite sex. See the suppression of books which transgender psychotics find offensive. See the suppression of books which make transgender psychotics uncomfortable. See the suppression of books which causes transgender psychotics distress. See the suppression of books which are not militantly and fanatically protransgender. See the suppression of books which deny the right of transgender psychotics to use the toilets and shower rooms of their choice and to play on the sports teams of their choice. See the suppression of books which deny that transphobia exists because they deny that transgender individuals exist. See the suppression of books which recognize the alleged existence of transgender individuals to be on par with the existence of dragons, unicorns and hobgoblins. See the suppression of books which recognize that the terms biological male and biological female are redundant inasmuch there are no other types of males or females than biological males and biological females. See the suppression of books which deny the right of transgender psychotics to encourage children to dress up as members of the opposite sex, to identify as members of the opposite sex, to mutilate themselves to mimic members of the opposite sex, to ingest drugs which halt hormonal development, and to step on board a dark, satanic train careening wildly into the abyss of civilizational collapse: "Libraries have been advised that they should bury books from TERF [Trans Exclusionary Radical Feminist] authors deemed to be 'offensive' while prominently displaying works promoting far left transgender ideology. Guidance titled from a London 'LGBTIQ+ library' called Book 28 in Islington dubbed, 'Welcoming LGBTIQ+ users:

advice for public library workers' has been sent out to libraries across the country about which books they should be featuring and which should be effectively hidden from sight. While the leftist librarians who wrote the guidance called for limiting access to socalled TERF books, it called for active promotion of not only LGBT themed works but also putting in place other 'best practices' such as hosting drag queen story hour performances and installing gender neutral toilets on library premises. The advice, reported by The Telegraph, told public run libraries that they should take measures to prevent the 'risk' of LGBT people coming across 'transphobic' books which they might find 'offensive'. In addition, it said that the number of copies of such books held by libraries should be limited while saying they should stock multiples of pro LGBT works. 'Be especially careful to make sure you do not make mistakes such as putting them on LGBTIQ+ displays or sections where they might cause upset,' the guidance stated. 'You can interfile them in your general stock and those who want to seek out these titles can always do so via your catalogue without the risk of a LGBTIQ+ person coming across the book in a way that looks like it may be being endorsed.' The guidance acknowledges that the books are legally allowed and that they may be of interest to the public, yet it suggested: 'We would recommend to be mindful of and not promote these books. Think carefully about how many you want to buy, perhaps based solely on individual requests'. 'There have been a few titles published which claim to be 'gender critical' and argue for removal of trans rights. These authors and their work can be labeled transphobic, and the writers themselves TERFS. We, along with many in the LGBTIQ+ community, find these books offensive.' Although the specific TERF authors were unnamed by the guidance, several British female writers have regularly been branded with the label, including Harry Potter author J.K. Rowling, Material Girls author Kathleen Stock, and Helen Joyce, the author of Trans." (Libraries Told to Hide 'Offensive' Books Critical Of Transgenderism by Kurt Zindulka). Look at Britain today and see classic children's books run through censorship mills manned by the commissars of political correctness. See passages written by gender, race and class activists deface children's stories beyond recognition. See ministries of falsehoods and propaganda transport children into underground worlds in which language, characters, plots and themes serve to dramatize communist representations and promote the aims and values of the enemies of civilization: "Passages in the books by children's author Roald Dahl have been extensively rewritten by its publisher to align with a woke agenda. Hundreds of changes to Dahl's celebrated children's books, including the likes of Matilda, James and the Giant Peach, and The Witches, have been identified by Ed Cumming, Genevieve Holl-Allen, and Benedict Smith in an article for The Telegraph, some of them changing passages of the works in question virtually beyond recognition. 'The wonderful words of Roald Dahl can transport you to different worlds and introduce you to the most marvellous characters. This book was written many years ago, and so we regularly review the language to ensure that it can continue to be enjoyed by all today,' publisher Puffin Books says of the changes—in other words, it is regularly rewriting those 'wonderful works' to suit modish sensibilities, much as 'Minitrue' (the Ministry of Truth) continuously rewrote books and other records to suit the narrative of the powers that be in George Orwell's Nineteen Eighty Four." (Publisher Rewrites Passages In Roald Dahl's Books To Promote Feminism, Fight Fatphobia by Jack Montgomery). Look at Britain today and see a totalitarian monster stalk the streets. See left wing extremists conduct a war of terror against the mind. See George Orwell's dark classic, 1984, become the nightmare of the twenty first century. See the brave voices of opposition to the armies of Marxism, Islam and radicalism of varieties which have descended upon Britain subjected to ruthless, round the clock censorship. See British liberal order, once the inspiration and envy of the free world, swept away by red guard thought police who have hurled the nation's free presses and Speakers Corners into the dustbin of history: "Reading George Orwell's 1984 or Aldous Huxley's Brave New World among dozens of classic books and television shows is a sign that you could be a far right extremist, a leaked document from a UK antiterrorism program reportedly claims. A 2019 document said to have leaked from the UK's much criticized Prevent antiterrorism program has claimed that someone reading George Orwell's 1984 or Aldous Huxley's Brave New World should be viewed as potential warning signs of extremism, with the internal paper listing a wide range of other seminal pieces of media as being red flags indicating someone may hold radical views. The leak comes shortly after a government investigation into the program found it to disproportionately focus on alleged right wing extremists at the expense of dealing with the very real problem of Islamic fundamentalism in Britain." (UK Anti Terror Program Lists Reading Orwell's 1984, Huxley's Brave New World as Signs of Extremism by Peter Caddle). Matthew Hopkins was an English witch hunter active during the English Civil War. During his three year reign of terror, from 1644 to 1647, he sent more people to be hanged for witchcraft than the previous one hundred and sixty years. Declared by Parliament to be England's Witch Finder General, Matthew Hopkins has been brought back to life in the twenty first century. Today he carries the imprimatur of the ruling communist church, a declaration of approval which he grants to the defenders of the orthodoxy, and carries the hangman's noose, with which he has banished freedom of thought.

GENERATION Z: YOUNG COMMUNISTS ON A RAMPAGE

Command: Pioneer, fight for the cause of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, and be prepared! Response: Always prepared! Thus was the two part motto of the largest, most extensive, most militant and most terrifying youth organization in the history of mankind. Founded by Soviet leader Vladimir Lenin in 1922, the Young Pioneers had forty million members, aged nine to fourteen, at its height in the 1970s, reaching from the Crimean Peninsula to Tajikistan to across the communist bloc, and sent them forth into the world on a mission to smash the traditions, institutions and voices of freedom in every sector of society, at home and abroad, whenever and wherever they found them. Its most important rule was: The Young Pioneer is a young builder of communism, labors for the welfare of the motherland, and prepares to become its defender. Its most important song was: Rise Up In Bonfires, You Blue Nights! It published its own newspaper, entitled Pionerskaya Pravda. It was honored on a Soviet postage stamp in 1936, entitled Saluting Pioneer; the fiftieth anniversary of its founding was honored on a Soviet postage stamp in 1972; and the one hundredth anniversary of its founding was honored on a Russian stamp in 2022. By the time it was dissolved with the fall of the Soviet Union in 1991, it had poisoned the minds of three generations of youth across the communist bloc and had indoctrinated more children in the tenets of a hate ideology than any other youth organization in history. Born between 1995 and 2010, Generation Z, the generation succeeding the Millenials and the latest generation of young adults, has brought back the dead. Forty years after the fall of the Soviet Union, the ghosts of young people marching, marauding and making war under the banners of the Soviet Red Star have returned to haunt the lives of today's young adults and have brought to a culmination a fearsome development in the West. One hundred years of communist agitation and voting among the masses, commencing under the name of Progressivism in the early twentieth century, has produced in the present day the most communist generation in the history of the West and ensured that the West, in a profound moral and political crisis for a century, lacks all possibility to survive as a free institution. The political views of young people are an expression of the views of the adults who teach them, and as the Western masses have moved into the communist camp, they have taken their children with them and established a monolithic, cross generational communist bloc which has sealed the fate of Western constitutional government and the Enlightenment ideals it expresses. The development of Generation Z has occurred at the end stage of Western civilization and has reenacted the fall of ancient Rome. The world's greatest empire of human flourishing collapsed into a wasteland patrolled by hordes of Christians and barbarians and brought freedom to a close by the unanimous consent of the people, by a unanimous alliance of the fathers, mothers, sons, daughters, grandsons and granddaughters of a degenerate society. Look at Generation Z today and see its members reject the values of individualism, independence, self reliance and self respect which form the bedrock a free society. See its members promote communism in the name of collaboration and cooperation. See its members promote communism in the name of unionization. See its members promote communism as the highest social cause. See its members reject individual freedom and worship at the altar of the common good. See its members exalt thinking and acting as a group and reject thinking and acting as individuals. See its members promote communist strikes, communist green projects and communist care for students and the homeless. See its members promote communism in the name of transgenderism and the right of gender confused, gender psychotic individuals to be treated as members of the opposite sex. See its members promote communism in the name of workers' rights. See its members join with their parents in a movement to eliminate private spaces, private sectors, private corporations and the progress of civilization which has protected the rights of man: "Researchers widely consider Generation X to be significantly more independent and self reliant; and millennials, according to empirical research, are the most individualistic generation of all. Gen Z, on the other hand, appears to be the collective generation. A multiyear Stanford University research project, the findings of which are detailed in the book Gen Z, Explained: The Art Of Living In A Digital Age, determined group born between the mid 1990s and 2010 is highly collaborative. [Jaz] Brisack believes since Gen Z feels they've been collectively let down by society, many feel it's necessary to act as a group to improve things. Gen Z driven unionization efforts also tend to be marked by the generation's passion for social causes, and their demands reflect it, says [Kate] Bronfenbrenner. 'There's this term, 'organizing for the common good',' she says. She points to several moments; for instance, in the spring, striking teachers in California demanded sustainability initiatives and better care for homeless students. 'The Starbucks workers demanded their employer take a stand on LGBTQ rights,' she adds. Data from the Pew Research Center research has shown public sentiment towards corporations is increasingly negative. And the public is more likely to support workers moving against them, she says even when it creates inconveniences like TV shows' new seasons being postponed, or UPS packages being delayed. 'There's a public who is willing to make sacrifices for workers' rights,' says Bronfenbrenner." (The Gen Zers Leading A New Pro Union Push by Kate Morgan). Look at Generation Z today and see the cancer of communism spread across its members and make all political parties, including the Democrat Party and the Republican Party, into different names for the same party, the communist party. See its members proclaim that government invasion of people's rights is the only solution to social problems. See its members proclaim that a progressive society allows government intervention in every shome, school, office and enterprise. See its members proclaim that progressive change is communist change, progressive politics is communist politics and a progressive society is a communist society. See its members condemn capitalism as a system of racial inequality and discrimination against blacks. See its members promote communism as a system of racial diversity. See its members condemn capitalism as a system of mass shooting of innocent people. See its members promote open, unvetted, mass immigration and the settlement of the nation by illegal immigrant communists. See its members condemn capitalism as a system of environmental degradation and promote communism as a system of environmental protection. See its members proclaim that the abolition of freedom, progress and Enlightenment institutions is the most pressing and urgent issue of our time: "The newest designated generation—Gen Z—is skewing more liberal [communist] than previous generations, according to multiple sources, including Pew Research Center. Most youths in any generation tend to think and vote closer to center and left than their elders, as people tend to become more conservative as they age, said William Frey, a senior fellow and demographer at the Brookings Institution. But Gen Z—including self identified Gen Z Republicans—show political tendencies that align closer to Democratic ideologies, Pew reported. In a report by news outlet Axios earlier this year, a majority of self identified Gen Z Republicans said the government should be doing more to solve problems, a contrast from Republicans of other generations, who typically eschew government intervention. While Gen Zers are projected to make up roughly 10 percent of the 2020 electorate, they will comprise 27 percent of the 2031 voting age population, according to Pew and Frey. If the younger Republicans remain consistent in their beliefs as they get older, they have the potential to shift the Republican Party toward a more liberal [communist] ideology, Axios reported. 'It's traditionally been the case that generations get more conservative as they get older,' Frey said. 'But Gen Z is so different that even if they do become a little bit more conservative than they are, they're going to probably change our politics and how we will act as a society.' The top three voting issues for Gen Zers as of November 2018 were mass shootings, racial equality and immigration policy, according to the Harris Poll given exclusively to Axios. Six of 10 students age 18 to 22 named climate change as an important and stressful issue to them. While Millennials generally support action on the climate issue, they still prioritize terrorism over environmental protection in the foreign policy realm, according to the HPOP [Harvard Public Opinion Project]. 'I think we're going to be a very different country in this century than we were in the last century, and largely because of this younger generation and their racial diversity, and their different attitudes about social issues,' Frey said." (Gen Z: Politically Leaning To The Left by Emily Seymour). She was the first and only American to join the Young Pioneers. She was a communist antiwar activist who praised the Soviet Union as a benevolent, peace loving state and demanded the unilaterial disarmament of America. She wrote a book entitled Journey To The Soviet Union which exalted life in the country as the pinnacle of political progress. In 1985, at the age of thirteen, she died onboard Bar Harbor Airlines Flight 1808, which crashed while approaching the runway. Called by communists throughout the world the Goodwill Ambassador from America, Samantha Smith was reborn in Generation Z. She was the bellwether of Generation Z and was the first member of the generation before its advent a decade after her death. Her Soviet Red Star rejection of liberal democracy has been replicated by today's young adults and has sounded the death knell of the West.
